PAPAL NUNCIO CALLS ON EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Important Sequel to Vatican Incident Takes Place at Austrian Capital.

NO EXPLANATION GIVEN

Dinner at Imperial Palace Concluding Function of American's Visit in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 16.—What is regarded as a very important sequel to the recent Vatican incident occurred after the luncheon which Ambassador Kerens gave today in honor of Colonel Roosevelt, when Monsignor Granito Di Belmonte Pignatelli, the papal nuncio accredited to the Austrian court, in the ecclesiastical vestments of his office, accompanied by his secretary, Monsignor Rossi-Stockalper, called upon the ex-President.

After being presented by the American ambassador the papal nuncio and Colonel Roosevelt withdrew. They talked together 20 minutes, but what transpired it is impossible to state, as both subsequently declined to give any information. It was assumed generally that the Vatican incident was discussed and that the nuncio was the bearer of a message from the pope as an ambassador cannot divest himself of his official functions.

Invited by Kerens

This, however, later was denied by Ambassador Kerens, who explained that he had invited the nuncio to be present at the luncheon to meet the ex-President, but that that official was unable to accept the invitation because no other member of the diplomatic corps was attending and being desirous of seeing Mr Roosevelt, he came after the luncheon.

When asked if it could be assumed that the papal nuncio was the bearer of a message from the Vatican, the American ambassador replied

"It would be unfortunate to place that construction upon the visit."

Another rumor which gained currency attributed the responsibility of the meeting to the emperor, the story running that the emperor, after meeting Colonel Roosevelt yesterday, was so greatly impressed with his personality that he telegraphed to the Vatican advising some step that would put an end to the incident. There are good reasons to believe that this version is entirely incorrect. It is explained that the emperor himself is in an awkward position with the Vatican over several matters, notably regarding the visit which he owes to the king of Italy and which he cannot make because if he went to Rome neither the pope nor the king would receive him if he called upon the other first.

Given Dinner by Emperor

The emperor's dinner at the imperial palace at Schoenbrunn tonight constituted the concluding official function of Colonel Roosevelt's visit to the Austrian capital. As the dinner was set for 6 o'clock Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit, in evening dress, left the hotel in a court carriage a half hour earlier. At the palace Count Belleard, master of the kitchen, conducted them to the mirror room where the other guests had assembled.

As the ex-President and his son reached the threshhold the doors opposite were thrown open and the emperor wearing the uniform of a field marshal advanced to meet the guests of the evening. After greetings, Colonel Roosevelt presented Kermit and in a few minutes the emperor, with the ex-President on his left led the way through several spacious apartments to what is called the 'small gallery,' a white gold apartment where small court dinners usually are given. The gallery overlooks an exquisite garden, in the center of which a marble fountain is constantly playing.

Thirty-five additional guests sat down to dinner.

With the exception of the Americans all the guests were in full court uniform. Colonel Roosevelt sat at the emperor's right and Ambassador

CHILD OF SIX MURDERED

Missing Chicago Girl Found Dead in a Shed Japanese Suspected of Fiendish Crime

CHICAGO, April 16.—A revolting crime was unearthed here today when the body of six-year-old Alfreda Doverska, daughter of Marshall Doverska, baker of 1461 Tell Place was found in a blood shed two doors away. Before the murder the child had been mutilated.

A few hours after the police found a little cap of Andy She left her home for a neighboring candy store on Thursday evening. She purchased the candy and that was the last seen of her alive.

At the scene of the murder the police found a letter written in Japanese and stained with blood. It is believed the letter fell out of the pocket of the murderer.

HYDE TRIAL WILL BEGIN ON MONDAY

PROSECUTOR READY TO GO ON WITH CASE.

Dr. Twyman's Illness Causes Postponement of Addresses Two Accused Physicians Meet.

KANSAS CITY, April 16.—"The case fo Dr. B C Hyde will positively go on trial next Monday," said Prosecutor Conkling tonight.

The plan was to have the state deliver its opening statement in the case today but not knowing the exact condition of Dr. G. T. Twyman, one of the state's witnesses, who was stricken with acute diverticulitis yesterday, the prosecution refused to make the address. In the event Dr Twyman could not be used as a witness, said Mr. Conkling, certain changes would have to be made in the statement. He wanted to know exactly what witnesses he could depend upon, he said, before he went into trial.

When it was suggested that the jury, which was chosen yesterday, be sworn, Mr. Conkling objected. This led many to believe he might yet ask to have the jury discharged. In the event of the jury being sworn, nothing could stop the progress of the trial.

Tonight, however, Mr. Conkling set aside all doubt as to his intention to begin the trial.

"Dr. Twyman's condition is very good, indeed," he said. "He may be able to testify. I shall proceed with the trial even though half the state's witnesses be dead."

Frank P. Walsh, chief counsel for Dr Hyde, will insist upon the witnesses for the state testifying in order and he will not present a witness for the defense until the last man has taken the stand for the prosecution.

Monday will probably be given over entirely to the making of the opening address. The state's speaker will address the jury first. Mr. Walsh will follow for the defense.

Dr. Hyde is anxious to go to trial. He believes he has a fair jury, and, besides, the cost of the case is heavy. In the five days spent in securing a jury, his stenographer fees amounted to a trifle over $600.

Dr J R Hull, who is under indictment with Mrs Alma Vaughn on a charge of poisoning the woman's husband, Professor J T Vaughn of Kirksville Mo, introduced himself to Dr Hyde in the court room today. They chatted for a few minutes regarding commonplace subjects. Each expressed pleasure at meeting the other.

Two more members of the Swope family—Misses Margaret and Lucy Lee Swope sisters of Mrs. Hyde, came to the criminal court building for the first time today. Neither spoke to Mrs. Hyde. Both announce they intend to take the stand against their brother-in-law.

Dr E M Purdue a local scientist, has been added to Dr. Hyde's list of medical experts it was announced today.

PARDON IS GRANTED PRISON POET CARTER

HALF OF HIS 10-YEAR SENTENCE REMITTED.

He Is Young Englishman Made Famous by Verses Written Behind Bars to "Will Tale."

ST PAUL, April 16.—The young Englishman known as "John Carter," who has served half of a 10-year sentence for burglary and whose case has attracted wide attention, because of his poetic genius, was given his freedom by the state pardon board this afternoon. Carter will be released from the Stillwater penitentiary, Monday, his twenty-fourth birthday anniversary. Carter who not pardoned for technical reasons, but the board ordered a commutation of sentence.

Telegrams and letters were read before the board from Robert U Johnson, editor of the Century magazine, and from other magazine editors.

Harry Phillips, director of music at McAlester college, who had become interested in Carter through his playing at the services in the prison chapel and his being editor of the Bellman, a Minneapolis journal, also sent letters.

The young poet admits that Carter is not his right name, but says that he is an Englishman and of good family. He will not divulge his identity. He says that his poems, which have been published in a number of leading magazines and have attracted much attention, were written to "kill time and ease my unhappy thoughts." His ballad of "Misery and Iron" won special recognition.

Carter was less than 20 years old when the crime was committee. His father was in an asylum, and John, who had been working in a bank but did not like the confinement, was sent to Canada by the family, who were in straitened circumstances, to learn farming.

Being unable to secure steady employment Carter started to "beat it" from Winnipeg to St Paul but during the night was put off at Carlista, Minn. Having had nothing to eat for 36 hours Carter broke into the railroad station and stole $24 and a silver watch. He was captured, pleaded guilty and was given the maximum penalty of 10 years.

FIND NIGHT RIDERS GUILTY

Eight Kentucky Farmers Convicted on Charge of Conspiracy in Restraint of Trade

CINCINNATI, O., April 16.—Eight Grant county Kentucky farmers were found guilty of conspiracy in restraint of trade by a jury in the United States district court at Covington, Ky., late today. Fines between $100 and $1,000 were assessed.

The defendants convicted were alleged to have interfered with interstate commerce by "intimidating and persuading W T Osborne also a Grant county farmer, to withdraw from shipment a lot of tobacco consigned to the Cincinnati market from the station at Dry Ridge, Ky.

The prosecution marked the first efforts upon the part of the federal government to take a hand in dealing with alleged "night rider" outrages.

Judge Cochran made it plain that the Burley Tobacco society as an organization was not a factor in the case on trial and ruled out both the evidence and the arguments of counsel in matters involving it.

All of the cases passed upon today will be appealed.

D. A. R. PRESIDENT UPHELD BY BOARD

FIGHT WILL BE CARRIED TO CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

[illegible]s Wilcox, Recording Secretary General, Censured for Antagonizing [illegible] of Organization.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The national board of management of the Daughters of the American Revolution today vindicated the action of Mrs. Matthew T Scott, president general of the organization, in discharging Miss Agnes Gerald a clerk at the national headquarters, for alleged insubordination. This will precipitate a bitter battle between the discordant factions of the D A R. during their continental congress, which convenes here on Monday.

The vote of vindication and support was passed by a majority of nearly two-thirds. The board in addition indorsed Mrs. Scott's administration and ordered that Mrs. Scott's statement on the Gerald matter and her lawyer's brief on the case be printed and distributed through the organization.

Several months ago Mrs Scott discharged Miss Gerald charging her with insubordination. Immediately Miss Gerald called in legal advice and served notice on Mrs Scott that she had no right to dismiss her for she was an appointee of the national board. Despite Mrs Scott's dismissal Miss Gerald continued to fulfill her duties at the D A R headquarters, although her name was stricken from the pay roll.

Miss Gerald was working under the direction of Miss Mary R Wilcox recording secretary general. Disregarding Mrs Scott's order Miss Wilcox continued to use Miss Gerald's services and finally issued a circular letter in defense of Miss Gerald tacitly charging Mrs Scott with unfairness. Miss Wilcox is a great granddaughter of President Andrew Jackson and highly thought of in the D A R.

Today the action of Miss Wilcox in issuing this circular was made the subject of a resolution of censure by the board and a recommendation to the national congress which meets here on Monday to join in this censure.

GOVERNOR SETS ASIDE WISH OF LEADING DEMOCRATS

Declares He Is Determined to Call Special Session of the Legislature.

HIS PLAN IS OPPOSED

State Committee, by Vote of 57 to 39, Denounces Action Proposed by Shafroth as Unwise.

DENVER, April 16.—By a vote of 57 to 39 the Democratic state central committee this afternoon declared unwise the calling of an extra session of the legislature by Governor Shafroth. The action of the committee is regarded as a [illegible] victory of the Speer-Hinkle faction over the Patterson-Shafroth wing.

Governor Shafroth declared tonight that notwithstanding the action of the state committee he was still determined to call the extra session.

I am disappointed that the committee did not see its duty as I see [illegible] he said, declared reviewing the platform pledges made by the state convention in 1908. 'Political pledges seem to me as sacred as private contracts. If upon the legislature failed to enact legislation promised the platform I felt it my duty to inform them that I expected to call an extra session for the purpose of keeping these pledges and I still regard it my duty to do so.

Demand Broad Call, if Any

Anticipating this stand on the part of the governor, the state committee has already voted that if an extra session is called the call must be framed sufficiently to include consideration of all of the platform planks including the initiative and referendum direct primary, bank guarantee, railroad commission, public utility commission and headless ballot, and further demanded that the governor exact a pledge from each Democratic member of the legislature to enter into a joint caucus of the house and senate and to abide by the majority decision of such caucus.

These demands formed the latter portion of the resolution characterizing the calling of an extra session as unwise. The resolution which was offered by Frank Moore of Canon City was cut in two separate parts the first dealing solely with the extra session and the second dealing with the demands aforementioned. The second portion of the resolution was adopted by a vote of 66 to 28.

The extra session question was the only bone of contention at today's meeting. State Chairman Charles B. Ward of Boulder had scarcely finished his speech of welcome to the 42 committeemen 42 committee women, and 42 county chairmen assembled at the Albany hotel when former Governor Charles S Thomas arose, and in a speech deploring the failure of the last Democratic legislature to redeem the party platform pledges introduced a resolution condemning the Democratic legislature and characterizing their conduct as wholly indefensible and undemocratic.

Hot Words Passed.

Harry Lubers speaker of the house at the last session of the legislature was on his feet immediately with an impassioned defense of the Democratic legislature declaring in the course of his remarks that he had been in favor of the direct primary and other party measures which failed of enactment.

This statement brought a flat contradiction from Thomas Henehan of San Juan who declared that Lubers took the floor against the primary law on February 15 1909. Feeling between the two men became intense and Henehan just fell short of using the "short and ugly" word. No action was taken on the Thomas resolution until after the adjournment for lunch.

At the opening of the afternoon session Dave Sapp of Gunnison offered a substitute resolution embodying the main features of the Thomas resolu-

WOMEN MAKE WAR ON GOVERNMENT

MILITANT TACTICS OF BRITISH SUFFRAGETTES.

They Have Horrors of Prison and Even Risk Life to Enforce Demand for Votes.

IV.—THE SUFFRAGETTES ON THE WARPATH
By Frederic J. Haskin

For the past two years the suffragettes in England have terrorized the ruling statesmen of that country. Women are no longer admitted to the galleries of the houses of parliament because the suffragette ladies insisted upon lecturing the grave and reverend members of the house from behind the grill work of the ladies gallery. Political mass meetings in England contrary to the precedents governing all political assemblies in all countries since the dawn of stump speaking no longer are open to the general public, admittance being gained only upon the presentation of a ticket. Even ticket holders are subjected to close scrutiny at the door for more than one suffragette has managed to get inside the hall disguised in male attire.

The prime minister of England during the recent campaign in that country entered a hall where he was to make a speech by hanging along the bridge which surrounded a cabbage patch at the rear of the building being forced thus to outwit the mob of English ladies which had picketed the front entrances resolved to force the premier into a promise of votes for women. Mr Winston Churchill, a member of His Britannic Majesty's Cabinet, was torn from the side of his wife by a mob of British ladies somewhat insistent upon women's rights and he escaped them only by reason of his superior brute strenght. Ladies being excluded from a banquet in the ancient Guild hall of London on the ground that Guild hall assemblies had been decently conducted for a matter of thirteen centuries, outwitted their lords and masters by throwing bricks through the ancient stained glass windows to muss up the display of plate and glass upon the banquet table and dishap to hit some stout alderman upon the head. In short it has become necessary in England to protect political assemblies of all kinds from violent interruption and disturbance by forcibly excluding all women from the vicinity. Thus in the space of but two years time the British suffragettes of the militant persuasion have brought about a reign of terror, in their own way, and have forced their demands into the front rank of pressing political issues.

Adopt Militant Tactics.

Skirmish warfare and desultory fighting began sometime in 1907, but the actual declaration of war between the suffragettes and the government was made on October 13, 1908. The suffragettes, several weeks before that day issued a special bill and put up posters reading as follows: "Votes for Women! Men and women, help the suffragettes to rush the House of Commons on Tuesday evening, October 13, at seven-thirty!" On the Sunday before, Mrs Pankhurst and her daughter and other suffragette leaders addressed a public meeting in Trafalgar square explaining what they wished the people to do, emphasizing the fact that they wished them to come unarmed and without sticks and stones. On Monday, the day before the grand rush was to have been made, Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Pankhurst and Mrs Drummond were arrested and taken to the police court charged with inciting the public to do a wrongful and illegal act. The prisoners were kept all night in the cells of the police court.

All during the day of the thirteenth the House of Commons was guarded by special cordons of police who kept the public at all points half a mile away from the Parliament houses. Twenty-four women and twelve men who attempted to pass the police lines were arrested. One woman, Mrs Travers Symons succeeded in eluding the viligance of the police. She got into the House and into the very chamber of the House of Commons, and made a speech before she could be arrested.

The trial of the suffragette leaders attracted the attention of the entire nation. Two members of the cabinet, Mr Lloyd George and Mr Gladstone, appeared as witnesses at the trial. The magistrate refused to grant an appeal and the three women were sent to prison. Instead of stopping the suffragette movement this incident had the effect of confirming Mrs. Pankhurst's followers in their belief of the wisdom of the militant tactics. Since that time suffragettes deliberately have courted arrest and imprisonment that they might be enrolled among the martyrs of the cause.

Disturb Political Meetings.

Not only have the suffragettes braved the horrors of prison life but they often have recklessly endangered their lives in their efforts to disturb and break up political assemblies. Mr. Lloyd George went to address a meeting in a large hall which, he was assured, was entirely free from the presence of ladies. When he had gotten into his address he was interrupted by feminine voices. Two or three women had got into the hall the day before and had perched themselves on the rafters at the roof, from whence they hurled threats of defiance and embarrassing questions upon the head of the great Welsh leader. Mr Lloyd George referred to them as "rats in the roof" and thereby added to his reputation as an ungallant, impolite and perfectly horrid man. On another occasion a great Liberal leader had announced a meeting at a certain hall, and the police took the precaution to guard the building for 24 hours before the speech was to be made, and to search all the ante-rooms, and even the roof. When Mr Asquith got under way, making his argument to a perfectly quiet audience, there was a great commotion under his feet and a half dozen suffragettes broke through the floor and clambered upon the platform and demanded votes for women.

The suffragettes have a flag of purple, white and green horizontal stripes which they carry in procession and which flit over the offices of the National Women's Social and Political Union. During the two weeks of the recent elections hundreds of automobiles decorated with purple, white and green were employed by suffragettes to convey to the polls voters pledged to cast their ballots against the ministerial candidates. Undoubtedly they did much to cut down the majority of the Asquith government, although they were unsuccessful in obtaining any specific pledges of support from the Conservative leaders.

The suffragettes publish a weekly journal, Votes for Women, edited by Frederick and Emmeline Pethick Lawrence. Wealthy women expensively clad take their places on the sidewalks of London and the provincial cities vieing with the newsboys and street gamins in disposing of these papers. The dead walls of every English city and town were covered with suffragette posters denouncing the Right Dishonourable double-faced Asquith and his party during the January campaign.

Leader a Clever Lawyer

It is impossible to give any one leader the entire credit or discredit for the militant suffragette movement, but it may be said safely that Miss Christabel Parkhurst is the genius of the organization. Her mother was the founder of the society and originator of the movement and still is at its head. Mrs Lawrence, Mrs Drummond, Mrs Tuke, Lady Constance Lytton and others have part in the direction and management of the affairs of the union. But Miss Parkhurst above and beyond all others, is the military director and the chief counselor of the suffragette army. She is a lawyer and she conducted her own defense and that of her mother and associates when on trial for inciting the mob to rush the House of Commons. Her cross examination of Mr Lloyd George and Mr Gladstone was far too clever for the comfort of those opulent statesmen. Her knowledge of the law and of the rules of evidence proved to be vastly superior to that of the magistrate who was trying the case. She succeeded, even in getting before the court testimony showing that in a previous case another magistrate had sentenced a suffragette to six months in prison because the government had instructed him to do so, even before the accused woman was arraigned in court.

The magistrate, by exercise of an arbitrary power which no American judge possesses, refused the suffragette leaders a trial by jury refusing a new hearing of the facts declined to grant an appeal on a question of law and refused to suspend judgment until after the return of a writ of certiorari. Miss Parkhurst's conduct of her defense did not avail to keep her out of Holloway Gaol but it did have the effect of winning a great deal of public sympathy to her side of the quarrel.

After a time the mere business of being sent to jail failed to create the proper amount of excitement. It is not known positively but there is strong reason to expect that it was Miss Christabel Parkhurst whose fertile brain evolved the idea of restoring popular interest. Suffragettes sent to prison resisted the prison officials in every possible way, broke up furniture, destroyed prison garments and made themselves generally disagreeable. Then came the hunger strike. But that is another story.

Tomorrow—Votes for Women.

UNION SOCIAL SUCCESS

The social held by the Colorado Springs Christian Endeavor union in the First Baptist church Friday evening was the first meeting in the Christian Endeavor week. The social was well attended by young people from most of the societies in the city. Much interest was shown in missions. Ten people from each society represented took for their subject the mission work in some country.

The next meeting of Endeavor week will be held in the First Christian church this evening at 8 o'clock. It will be a union meeting and will be addressed by H S Fairchild of this city and Miss Ida Clothier of Manitou. All young people are urged to attend and are assured of a profitable evening.

"The Business End of the Sunday School" and "Should We Have More Men Sunday School Teachers?" are two subjects that will receive much attention at the El Paso County Sunday school convention to be held here May 5-6. Officers of the state Sunday School association will attend, and each meeting will be featured by discussion on some subject calculated to better the work of Bible teaching.

"The Great Campaign on Sunday School Evangelism" and "What Should Be El Paso County's Portion of the 2,000 Delegates to the State Convention" are topics to which the executive committee has arranged to give wide range during the sessions. Effort will be made to have this county more largely represented than ever before, at the next state convention.

A week from today, which will be "association day" is expected to arouse much interest in the forthcoming convention. On this day in all the churches, preparations for representation will be made and the annual offerings for county work will be given.

DEFEND POSITION

Judge Little and Probation Officer Moore Discuss the Ratledge Delinquency Case

Both Judge J. E. Little and Probation Officer A. W. Moore, who are strongly criticised by the mothers in the Sunset Vista school district for the so-alleged undue leniency toward Arthur Ratledge, the 13-year-old boy recently released on parole although charged with a serious offense, yesterday issued statements pointing out that the usual custom of the court was followed in Ratledge's case, and maintaining that it is not to punish a juvenile delinquent for the first offense. They say that this is the first time Ratledge has ever been brought into court.

A mass meeting of the mothers of the district will be held in the Second Presbyterian church tomorrow night, when formal resolutions will probably be passed condemning Judge Little and Officer Moore.

Throughout the dinner, which comprised 12 courses with eight wines of rare variety, the band of the Thirty-second infantry played in a gallery selections from Strauss. The service was of silver and white and gold china with the imperial eagle in gold on the borders.

Cordial Leave Taking.

Still following the ceremonial of private dinners as distinguished from gala and state banquets, no formal toasts were given. The dinner occupied precisely one hour, and upon arising from the table the party returned to the mirror room, where what is known as the "circle" followed, during which the emperor personally made the round of his guests. His leave-taking of the former President and his son was exceedingly cordial.

From the palace Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit drove direct to the imperial opera where they occupied the court box for a short time during the second act of the "Barber of Seville."

The house was crowded in anticipation of the ex-President's presence and he was given a hearty reception. Mr. Roosevelt drove from the opera to the American embassy where an informal reception to the American colony had been arranged.

Invited to a Hunt.

While at breakfast this morning Mr. Roosevelt received a call from Emperor Francis Joseph's aide who invited him to accompany his majesty on a capercailzie hunting expedition following the court dinner tonight. These birds are shot just before dawn and the emperor proposed that they go on a special train to Semmering in the eastern Alps. Unfortunately Mr. Roosevelt's engagements compelled him to decline this gracious invitation.

After the luncheon with American Ambassador Kerens today Mr. Roosevelt called upon Prince and Princess Furstenberg and was escorted by the prince, who is at the head of the management, to the international sportsman's exhibition.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave for Budapest at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, a special car having been placed at his service. He will be met by Count Apponyi at Pressburg and will spend the day with the count at his castle at Eberhart. He will resume his journey at 6:30 in the evening, arriving at Budapest about three hours later.

According to well informed Viennese no man, private citizen or royalty, has ever been accorded such public ovations as have been bestowed upon Colonel Roosevelt here. Everywhere he visited he was surrounded by thousands who did not neglect any chance to let loose full throated "hochs," the Austrian form of a cheer accompanied by a unanimous hat raising and salutes.

MINISTER MARISCAL DIES

Mexico's Foremost Diplomat and in Charge of Foreign Relations More Than 30 Years.

MEXICO CITY, April 16.—Ignacio Mariscal, Mexico's most foremost diplomat and for more than 30 years head of the department of foreign relations, died unexpectedly today of pneumonia. The funeral will be held tomorrow. President Diaz, Vice President Corrall and members of the president's cabinet will act as honorary pall bearers. The body will be buried in the French cemetery here beside that of his wife, who died nine years ago. She was Miss Laura Smith of Washington, D. C.

Mariscal was born in Oaxaca, the birthplace of President Diaz of whom he was a life-long friend and adviser. He was a member of congress when the present constitution of Mexico was adopted in 1857. A few years later he entered the diplomatic service of his country and in 1869 went to Washington as first secretary of the Mexican legation. He was made minister in 1872. He was appointed minister to Great Britain in 1874.

Upon the election of Diaz to the presidency in 1876 Mariscal was made minister of foreign affairs.

FOREIGNERS NOW SAFE

British Gunboat Arrives at Scene of Chinese Rioting and American Is on the Way.

LONDON, April 16.—Advices received here today say a British gunboat has arrived at Changsha and that there is no further cause for anxiety concerning foreigners whose property has suffered during the rioting of the natives.

The China Inland Missionary society received a message from Hankow stating that all the missions at Changsha have been destroyed and all the personal effects of the missionaries lost.

AMOY, China, April 16.—The American cruiser Cleveland of the Asiatic fleet was today ordered to Hankow because of the anti-foreign riots at Changsha.

ENORMOUS DAMAGE

At Waterloo it was reported that the heaviest snow of the year was falling.

WINONA, Minn., April 16.—Southern Minnesota and South Dakota are under several inches of snow tonight as the result of a snow storm that lasted throughout the day. Farther north, it is reported, the snow fall averaged eight inches. Between Winona and the Black Hills the temperature tonight ranged from 15 to 30 degrees. It is still snowing in this region, but clearing a hundred miles west of here. The storm will have a disastrous effect on blossoming fruit and garden products. Grain will not suffer.

250,000 WORKMEN ARE LOCKED OUT

WAR DECLARED AGAINST GERMAN LABOR UNIONS.

Master Builders Backed by Employers in General and Many Industries Will Be Affected.

BERLIN, April 16.—The building trades lockout, which has already made a quarter of a million workers idle, appears to be the beginning of a long struggle affecting many divisions of national industry. The employers have locked out the men in an effort to put an end once and for all to what they regard as the intolerable demands of the latter.

The employers declare that the workmen have been pursuing for several years a policy of forcing high wages and shorter hours by bringing about local strikes in various cities, thus securing occasional agreements which they would be unable to obtain through concerted action. They also say that the time has come when employers must stand together to hold their position against their employes.

The general employers organization, which includes representatives of every German industry is firmly supporting the lockout and already has voted funds for the aid of the master builders. The organization apparently purposes to supply the sinews of war as long as the lockout continues.

The labor unions, too, have been making preparations for the lockout and planned to support their idle members. The general managers of the Socialist organizations, which comprise by far the larger part of the organized builders, have decided to attempt no assistance for the first two weeks. Owing to the huge proportions of the lockout it will be an extremely difficult problem for the labor unions to secure sufficient contributions to maintain their members and their families through a prolonged period of enforced idleness.

No Spring Medicine Needed

Robinson Thermal Baths Clear the Blood and Prepare System for Hot Weather.

Eczema and other skin diseases are caused by the accumulation of impurities in the tissues and blood. Drugs do not eliminate this poison. The most they can do is to ease the pain and itching for the time being.

The Robinson Thermal or Turkish Bath has a remarkable effect on eczema, and all skin troubles. A tremendous amount of poison is extracted from the system through the pores, whenever a Robinson Thermal Bath is taken. Cases have been known where eczema or a bad case of pimples and boils have been almost entirely cured after a twenty-minute bath, taken at home. The terrible itching and burning stops, the blotches heal, and the disease disappears.

Mrs. I. Bailey, 181 Joralemon street, Brooklyn, was treated for years by the best physicians in Brooklyn and New York for rheumatic gout and eczema without being benefited. Physicians told her not to take the baths, as she had heart trouble, but she was determined to try the Cabinet, and has taken four baths a week for the past year, and today she is free from both rheumatism and eczema.

Remarkable results occur in nearly every case of rheumatism, lumbago, kidney and blood troubles, dyspepsia, throat and lung trouble, nervous prostration, insomnia and constipation.

Robinson Thermal Baths can now be taken at home at a cost of but a few cents each, and with almost no trouble at all.

They are the best spring medicine, for they quickly restore the thick, heavy blood and bring renewed energy and vim.

The only way to take these thermal baths is by the use of the Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinet. The results are a real Godsend. If you are sick from any cause, it will have an almost miraculous effect upon your system. If you are well, it will keep you so.

The Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinets are a remarkable invention. They are now on exhibition and for sale in Colorado Springs at Robinson Drug Co., D. Y. Butcher Drug Co., the Murray Drug Co., The Phillips-Smith Drug Co.

If you cannot go and see these Robinson cabinets, send your name and address to the Robinson Manufacturing Company, Suite 57, Snowflake Bldg., Toledo, Ohio, for full illustrated information, free.

WOULD BURY HISSING INCIDENT IN OBLIVION

President Taft Sends Courteous Answer to Apology of Suffragist Association.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Taft has assured the members of the Women's National Suffrage league of his regret at the hissing incident which marred the President's reception by the organization last Thursday.

Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, the corresponding secretary, today received the following letter from the President in answer to an apologetic letter last night:

"My Dear Mrs. Potter: I beg to acknowledge favor of April 15. I unite with you in regretting the incident occurring during my address to which your letter refers. I regret not because of any personal feeling, but only because much more significance has been given it than it deserves and because it may be used in an unfair way to embarrass the leaders of your movement.

"I thank the association for the kindly and cordial tone of the resolutions submitted and hope that the feature of Thursday night's meeting which you describe as one giving your association much sorrow may soon be entirely forgotten.

"Sincerely yours,
"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

FRUIT IS SAFE

Battle for Millions Won by Grand Valley Ranchmen.—Damage Is Slight in Other Sections.

DENVER, April 16.—Reports from the fruit raising districts of the Grand valley on the west slope and from the Montrose and Paonia districts indicate that little real damage was done by last night's frost and that the fruit crop of these districts, estimated to be worth nearly eight million dollars this year, has escaped harm. The extreme cold has now passed.

Thousands of smudge pots around Grand Junction and Palisades, fed by hundreds of men and boys, who were aroused last night by fire alarms and whistles and hurried to the orchards by automobiles and wagons, raised the temperature around the imperiled trees from eight to 10 degrees.

Around Montrose and other fruit districts the trees were not so far advanced.

SAY THEY TRUSTED FRIENDS AND LOST

Missouri Couple Who Traded Property Want It Returned on Grounds of Fraud

Alleging that through misplaced confidence in a former acquaintance, they were defrauded out of considerable money, James S. and Nancy A. Yadon yesterday brought suit in the district court to recover damages in the sum of $4,700 and to have property located in Missouri, which was traded for Colorado real estate, reconveyed to them. They name as defendants L. C. White, W. R. White, L. A. White and Edward P. Hufford, as public trustee. Throughout the complaint the couple maintain that the trade of property was consummated through the confidence they bore in the Whites, who, in turn, they claim, played on this confidence in order to defrauded them of the Missouri property.

The Yadons allege that in February of this year they conveyed to L. C. White and L. A. White, his wife, some real estate property located at Cambria, Macon county, Missouri, together with a two-story hotel building thereon, the whole being valued at $3,000, in exchange for 160 acres of land and improvements held by the Whites in El Paso county. That in making the exchange it was with the understanding that the Colorado property had a habitable and substantial four-room dwelling upon it and that the whole was easily worth $4,000. Later, in order to secure a note for $1,000 to L. C. White, that the plaintiff conveyed the property to Hufford as public trustee. And further that before making the trade, the plaintiffs did not know the location or value of the land except through representations of the defendants.

After the trade was made, according to the Yadons, they removed their household goods to this county and came here to live, but upon their arrival found that the house they had secured was not fit to live in and that the property, which had been represented as worth $4,000 was not worth more than $1,000, and as one cause for damage they allege that the defendants Whites knew this to be a fact all the while negotiations were under way.

After making an offer to reconvey the Colorado property to L. C. White and L. A. White, the Yadons pray the court to give them damages in the sum of $1,500, together with an additional $250 for costs expended in removing to the county. Further they pray that the deed and conveyance to the Missouri property be canceled and the defendants be forced to redeliver it to the plaintiff's possession. It is also proyed that the $1,000 note given to White be canceled and the holder be compelled to deliver it to the Yadons.

TO BEGIN TOMORROW ON GIDDINGS BLOCK

Remodeling of Large Building Will Be Pushed Rapidly Sell Out Heavy Lines.

The work of tearing out partitions and getting ready for the reconstruction of the Giddings building, as announced in The Gazette last Sunday will begin tomorrow morning. A large force of workmen will push the remodeling work as rapidly as possible and it is expected that the building will be ready for the new furniture and other departments planned for the third and fourth floors, by August. The occupants of the offices in the third and fourth floors will move to other quarters and these floors will each be turned into one great storeroom extending the entire length of the building to the alley on Kiowa street.

Owing to the fact that each present stock of merchandise is too full to move out of the way and also because of crowded conditions that will exist during the rebuilding work it is planned to dispose of the heavy lines of goods to expedite the remodeling work.

SIGHTS HALLEY'S COMET

Visible to Naked Eye in Eastern Sky as a Hazy Star With a Short Tail

A local observer, W. N. Birchby of 1625 North Wahsatch avenue, who is in charge of the astronomical station on Nob Hill, got a view of the famous Halley's comet about 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The view was obtained from the station on Nob Hill, which is maintained by the Western Association of Stellar Photography. The comet was visible at a point about 10 degrees north of the east point near the horizon and to the naked eye had the appearance of a hazy star. Through a field glass a short tail was visible. The comet will be visible in the eastern sky for about three weeks. After May 18, it can be seen in the evening on the western horizon.

IT WAS ECZEMA

Scalp Trouble Puzzled Specialists but Was Easily Cured.

A few months ago the case was reported of a little girl living in Hackensack who was sent to three different hair specialists in New York for treatment of a scalp affection which they considered a contagious disease. One went so far as to have her hair shaved off. Later, the trouble was found to be a simple case of eczema, which was cured in a few days by Poslam.

In the various forms of skin troubles in both infants and adults, Poslam produces beneficial results from the first application. Eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. Occasional applications will quickly banish pimples, blotches and complexion blemishes and will relieve and cure itching feet, scaly scalp, humors, etc.

Poslam can be had for 50 cents at any reliable druggists, particularly the Robinson Drug Co. and the Owl Drug Co., who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street New York City, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in 24 hours.

ROMANES ARRIVES

That George H. Romanes, the rich Scotchman whose admission to the United States was delayed at Ellis Island by the immigration authorities, who cited a clause in the immigration laws bearing on persons having communicable diseases, is now practically a prisoner at the hands of the federal authorities, although he is walking the streets of Colorado Springs with apparent freedom, is the interesting outcome of the negotiations which finally led to Mr. Romanes' being allowed to enter this country.

He registered at the Antlers and stayed there 24 hours, later going to the Acacia with his wife and children. Mr. Romanes, who is a consumptive, was advised by physicians in his native country and in England to come to Colorado.

Mr. Romanes, who charges an undue amount of red tape in connection with his entrance into this country, finally gave bond to the government of $1,000, the conditions imposed being that he come direct to this city and stay here, being at all times subject to the health authorities. Later the secretary of commerce and labor will pass on his case.

As a sort of loophole to the law barring foreigners with communicable diseases, a clause was discovered allowing them entrance when they were to take "special treatment" and, under the argument that breathing the Colorado air is a sort of "special treatment," Mr. Romanes was allowed to proceed.

His brother, Frank Romanes, who is instructor in St. John's Military Institute, Kansas, accompanied his relative and family to this city. He says he will interest British Ambassador James Bryce in the case.

Christian's Laxative Cereal Flakes and Combination Laxative Bread and Nuts and fruits will cure the most stubborn cases of constipation and torpid liver. Ask for literature and get trial order. H. A. Shaw, 306 Pikes Peak.

THE ILLUSION OF PICTURES

We are accustomed to impractical and absurd suggestions for construction of "home made" and "catalogue" furniture, but the following from a widely circulated monthly appears to be the limit.

Fig. 1.

To make chair out of a cask * * * * "begin by firmly tacking a stout piece of canvas over the surface of cask, FILL IN WITH EXCELSIOR, and cover the whole with a small patterned cretonne."

For such are absurd contrivance, they illustrate the completed job, with the above pictures of a comfortable looking chair. Every mechanic knows that it is impossible to make a chair like the picture out of a cask, and as to comfort, it would equal the comfort of the Spanish inquisition.

The point is, that unless one knows the article, pictures are an illusion and more, and the mail order catalogues are illustrated out of proportion to article as it is.

COMPARISON SALE

While it is an undisputed fact that a large majorit y of women buy their own and their children's wearing apparel ready-to-put-on, we realize there are a number who still adhere to the practice of "having a dressmaker" or doing their own sewing at home. These latter women we are particularly anxious to have attend our comparison sale which we will hold this week to demonstrate that high class garments ready-to-put-on can be bought at about the cost of materials alone, thus doing away with the trouble, time and expense of sewing women. Besides, in buying a ready-made garment you see just what you are getting, just how it will look, just how it fits and just what it costs. In having things made all these points are in doubt, and if any of them go wrong you stand the loss. Women who are regular buyers of ready-to-wear garments will fully appreciate the advantages of this sale, as the prices prevailing are much lower than usual and most lines are in splendid condition for choosing. Every price quoted below will remain in force ALL WEEK (unless the lots should be closed out before Saturday night), but after this week all prices will be restored to the regular figure. Owing to the number of garments involved in this sale it will be impossible for us to handle them in our workroom along with regular lines, so that all the sale garments will be sold with the understanding THAT THEY WILL NOT BE TAKEN FOR ALTERATIONS. Buyers will find, however, that with our generous assortments they will have no trouble securing their exact size, and changes will not be necessary.

SPRING CLEANING

Street Department Busy Cleaning Away Debris From Downtown Thoroughfares.

The dead leaves and dirt that have accumulated in the drain ditches along the streets just off the business section are gradually being removed by a large force of men employed by the city street department.

The cleanup is made in order to have the streets in good shape to carry off the water when heavy rainstorms come. Usually the leaves and dirt fill the ditches almost full with the result that when they are cleaned out several wagon loads of debris are hauled away from each block. In the residence section large street scrapers are also doing much to put the roadbeds in good shape for the spring traffic.

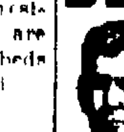

COOLIDGE LECTURES NEXT

On account of the arrangement of courses by which Professor Coolidge of Colorado College is to leave on April 20 with the seniors of the School of Forestry for the spring field work at Manitou Park, it has been necessary to postpone Professor Morrill's lecture to April 26, in order that Professor Coolidge's lecture may be given before he goes to the woods. The subject of his lecture is "The History of the Forestry Movement." It will cover the history of forestry in Germany, France and other countries, showing that the same general course of events occurs in each and pointing out what may be expected in the United States. It will also consider the causes which have led to the practice of forestry, the work done by the federal government and the steps taken by practical lumbermen.

The lecture is scheduled for Tuesday evening, April 19, at 8:15 o'clock in room 3, Palmer hall. The public is invited.

Give Your Stomach A Chance

To Strengthen the System the Most Scientific Way Finds to Drive Dyspepsia From the Stomach.

A Trial Package Free.

You should give to your stomach the chemicals it needs to restore tone, vigor and health to the gastric fluids.

Food contains all these ingredients so necessary, and when the stomach is in a normal condition it separates these ingredients as it should and manufactures its own digestive agents but when it is sick and sore, filled with acids and alkalies that irritate everything they come in contact with, it does not get at the food as it should and cannot make its own juices correctly.

Science has proven just what is most necessary to the stomach to produce the correct gastric fluids and to make of digestion a naturally pleasant duty.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so made as to give the stomach the highest chemical properties to aid digestion. These tablets are made up from pure fruit and vegetable essences, and this is the formula Hydrastis, Golden Seal, Lactose, Nux, Aseptic Pepsin (the highest digestive known), and Jamaica Ginger. Its preparation peculiarly preserves the full strength of these ingredients, so that they go into the stomach strong and capable of digesting food of any character. Forty thousands physicians use and prescribe them. Ask your doctor his opinion of the formula above. Every druggist sells them, price 50 cents per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

DISCOVER CAUSE OF ALL TROUBLE

$1,700 FUND BOTHERING DEMOCRATS, 'TIS SAID.

Chairman Central Committee Has Much to Do in Disbursing It, Hence the Fight.

The dark colored citizen in the pile of lumber has been discovered—the real bone of contention among the members of the Democratic county central committee has come to light, according to authentic information. And the bone, properly speaking consists of about 1,700 bones, commonly known as dollars, which the committee will receive from the state to conduct its political campaign in El Paso county next fall. And thereupon hangs the tale of the dissension over the choice of a successor to Chairman George B. Lang, who, it was expected, would resign. And incidentally, it is almost assured Mr. Lang will not resign at the meeting of the committee tomorrow, which he recently called.

The last legislature enacted a law providing that the county central committees of the respective political parties be given 25 cents from a state fund provided for that purpose, for every vote cast by that party during the preceding election. This apportionment allows $1,700 to the El Paso county Democrats, and, according to the law, must be used for campaign purposes. The chairman of the central committee has much to do with the employment of workers, etc., so that the disposition of this state fund lies largely in his hands. As a result, the chairman will have considerable influence at the county convention, and it is to secure this influence that the factions are fighting, although ostensibly only in order to elect a chairman.

Unless Lang sees that a successor in line with his own way of thinking will be elected to succeed him, he will not resign at all.

The meeting will be held in the court house at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The call gives the purpose of the meeting as the discussion of "plans for the coming campaign and transaction of other business as may properly come before the committee."

According to a conservative estimate by chamber of commerce officials, Colorado City will have in the neighborhood of 5,200 population when the returns from the census come in. SHE IS ALL BUT QUEEN

In all affairs of weight whether of war politics or business beautiful women have always exerted a mighty influence. This subservience of the world to feminine loveliness is seldom admitted by the sterner sex, but it is there just the same and no one realizes it better than man, more man. He is a daily worshiper at the shrine of Venus and a passively willing prisoner to her charms. Paying regular and munificent tribute has become a habit with him.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

MAKES BEAUTIFUL HAIR

To be considered beautiful it is not essential that a woman have a pretty face. Let her possess a wealth of natural fluff, hair and no one will ever dispute her right to being called handsome. Good hair softens the lines of the face and gives it an attractiveness which cannot be denied. As a saver of woman's beauty Newbro's Herpicide stands alone as it makes snappy, glossy hair possible for all.

Dull, brittle, lack-lustre hair is mute evidence of the working of the dandruff germ. Herpicide is the one remedy which may be depended upon to kill the germ that causes dandruff and to prevent the hair from falling out. Don't let anyone sell you something "just as good." You want Herpicide, the Original Remedy.

Kills the Dandruff Germ Stops Falling Hair

The immediate effect of a regular use of this remarkable hair remedy is to cleanse the scalp, allay the itching and induce a condition of health in the follicles, not already atrophied, so that the hair may start growing.

Wonderful and satisfying indeed are the results which follow regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide.

J. A. Hayes' Work in California "Say "eav That Paving Proposition Will Be Successful.

As a result of a letter received yesterday by Acting Mayor Himebaugh from J. A. Hayes, who is on his way to California, the paving proposition north of Huerfano street assumed a brighter outlook. Mr. Hayes expects to reach Colorado Springs next Thursday and states in his letter that he has secured a number of signatures to paving petitions from local property owners now on the coast. These include the Tutt property, which takes in the Opera House, Hagerman building and the building occupied by the Wilbur store.

With the paving of five blocks already assured, and from the optimistic tone of Mr. Hayes' letter, those who are showing the greatest interest in the plan to pave the downtown streets have not yet given up hope that their desires will be accomplished.

DRUGGISTS MEET SOON

To Consider Tuberculosis Committee's Suggestion as to Cleansing of Glasses.

Within a fortnight the local Retail Druggists association will hold a meeting and will consider, among other things, the suggestion made at last week's meeting of the antituberculosis committee of 15 that sellers of soft drinks wash their glasses in antiseptic liquid after each usage. It was denied last night, however, that the druggists association will take any action upon their recommendation unless by the time of the meeting the committee of 15 shall have followed up its idea in some more material manner.

Secretary Paris of the association explains that careful soda dealers wash their glasses in a solution which contains bicarbonate of soda, this easily removing the cream, but that there is nothing antiseptic in this solution.

The druggists association has not held a meeting for some time.

What is "Quality" in Men's Clothes?

IT'S in the fabric the weave, the sheen, the soft, rich blending of colors, the shading of tones. It's in the draping in graceful lines, symmetry, proportion. It's in a hundred details, hard to define, but easy to recognize.

Your own native sense of quality will substantiate all we can say for clothes made by

SUNDAY, APRIL 17, 1910.

A VICTORY FOR HUGHES.

GOVERNOR HUGHES appears to be accomplishing by strategy what he found it impossible to do by coercion. The Allds bribery scandal created a demand several weeks ago for a thorough probing of alleged legislative graft at Albany, but the efforts of the Governor, backed by the Federal Administration, to secure a general investigation were balked by the Republican machine and it looked for a time as if the hands of the State Executive were tied.

Subsequent events, however, prove that the Governor had a card up his sleeve. Rather unostentatiously, State Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss, one of the leading Hughes lieutenants in his battles for reform, a couple of weeks ago began an inquiry at New York into the relations of the fire insurance companies with Albany legislators. It was not long before revelations had been made which paled the Allds affair into insignificance and brought the "Old Guard" to the verge of nervous prostration.

The result was magical. A resolution providing for a joint legislative committee to probe the corruption allegations has just gone through the Senate in double-quick time and its passage by the Assembly seems to be assured. In other words, the facts brought to light by the Hotchkiss inquiry and fear of what its further prosecution might bring forth have forced the gang politicians to sanction a legislative investigation as the lesser evil.

LEGISLATURE MUST ACT IN GOOD FAITH.

This is a great victory for the Governor, but he does not intend to be caught napping, and while the Legislature is having a chance to demonstrate its good faith by digging right down into the core of the rottenness, the machinery of the Insurance Department inquisition will be kept in smooth working order ready to be called into use in case the legislators attempt to keep anything under cover.

The disclosures already made regarding the so-called "Yellow Pup" fund of the fire insurance companies not only establish conclusively that the buying of legislators has been going on for years on a large scale, but furnish grounds for the belief that the probe must go deeper to reach the heart of the corruption. And until the work of exposure has been prosecuted to the very limit no member of a New York legislature during the last half dozen years or so will be free from suspicion.

In this fact rests the strongest assurance that the Legislature, now that it has been forced to take up a general graft inquiry, will make it thorough. But should the investigation develop into a farce, the Governor will in all probability lose no time setting his own inquisitors to work again, nor will he let up until his demand for a complete exposure has been met. He seems to have an almost uncanny faculty for getting what he wants, not always when he wants it, but almost always some time.

AGAIN THE SMUDGE POT WINS.

AGAIN the smudge pot has proved itself to be one of Colorado's best friends. To say that it did hundreds of thousands worth of work in one night is not giving it too much credit, judging from reports from the fruit districts throughout the state. Every year it has a little tilt along about this time with Jack Frost and never yet has it lost a battle. Thursday night when the Storm King came along with the avowed intention of damaging Colorado's reputation as a fruit-growing state, hundreds of little smudge pots got busy in the state's behalf and as a result hardly a bud was nipped, the prospects for a bumper crop are just as good as before the set-to and fruit raisers are wearing the proverbial smile that won't come off.

Of course, the danger is not entirely over but it has been greatly lessened. Other cold waves may come, but as time goes on (it's a way time has, says "Bob" Burdette) the danger decreases. It is enough to say that the homely smudge pot is equal to the task of saving millions of dollars for the state under ordinary conditions and that its use reflects the intelligence and foresight of hundreds of fruit growers. Probably no other investment yields such large returns as the little, inexpensive orchard heater.

Within the short space of eight or ten years Colorado has forged to the front as one of the leading fruit states of the Union. Fruit raising is now one of its chief industries. This is shown by the fact that in the Grand Junction district alone from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 worth of apples, peaches, pears and plums are produced each year. The Canon City district is not far behind, and there are still others which bring the crop value of the yield up to an enormous total.

And the end is not yet. Every year hundreds of acres of fruit trees are being set out and within another eight or ten years it is likely that the state will be producing two or three times as much fruit as it does now. In fact, the possibilities seem almost unlimited. There are vast areas of untilled soil that will some day be made to nurture myriads of fruit trees, and when this day comes the Centennial state will stand head and shoulders above all rivals.

Reports from Canon City and all points on the Arkansas Valley are to the effect that a record-breaking crop is promised this year, thanks largely to the smudge pot. Without its aid frost doubtless would have killed all of the blossoms in certain sections of the state as well as many of the unopened buds. This should be a lesson to the few short-sighted individuals who have neglected to provide themselves with these heating devices. They are literally worth their weight in gold.

THE CHURCH AND CIVIC PROBLEMS

WHEN the Sunday School superintendent of a large New York church said the other day that if he had his way his school would hereafter teach the evils of "graft" as well as the lessons of the Holy Writ, he suggested a practical work for which it is not to be denied that there is need. If there be any way in which morals, as embodied in the dogmas of today, are being undermined, it is certainly by the covert sneers of the corrupt politician and any steps which aim to eliminate him from public life, through the laity or the clergy, are in line with the right kind of advancement.

"The church cannot afford to sit still and view this epidemic of political corruption from afar," says this up-to-date superintendent. "The recent revelations in many American cities should be considered as a clarion call to the church for a united effort in teaching the children the way they should go." One of the points upon which much stress was laid at the recent Layman's Missionary convention in this city was that work must deal at home with civic problems, as well as with religious ones in foreign lands, which is one of many signs that the church is awakening to the necessity for practical application of religious precepts.

The idea of teaching the evils of graft is to be pushed among all churches in the land and if they unite in a crusade against civic corruption tangible and far reaching results may properly be hoped for.

FROM OTHER PENS

WELCOME THE PEACE MESSENGER
From the Chicago Tribune.

Like the dove returning from the ark, Hon. Charles Warren Fairbanks has come back from his world circling trip, bearing to us in his mouth the olive branch of peace. All nations, he assures us, have nothing but amity for America.

We are glad Mr. Fairbanks is back. Things have been sad during his absence. Our arms have hung unused upon the walls, and the cocktails have stood untouched upon the sideboard. But now all will be merriment in Indiana. The hew-gag will resound in Posey county and the stars of Marion shall sing together. Let the bard of Alamo twang his lyre and all the batrachians of Pink Mink Marsh sing in chorus.

THE SPELLING QUESTION.
From the Manchester Union.

There is a prevalent conviction, whether justified by the facts or not, that the school children of today are not so thoroughly trained in spelling as were the pupils of a generation or two ago. A school superintendent of a county in Pennsylvania has planned for a series of spelling bees to be held throughout the county, and has prepared a book of 500 practical everyday words. Prizes will be awarded to the winners in the contests. English spelling is arbitrary and difficult. It is too bad that so much effort and time should be necessary to teach a child merely to spell the words of his native tongue, and there is a good deal to be said for simplified spelling. But that reform is inevitably sure to be long in coming, and, in the meantime, there is nothing which gives one a more disagreeable sensation of disappointment than to find misspelled words in an otherwise well-written letter. It implies ignorance and it is difficult to believe that the writer of a misspelled letter is better equipped in other departments of knowledge.

WHY BRITAIN HOLDS EGYPT.
From the Springfield Republican.

Mr. Roosevelt's assumption that in many respects Egypt benefits by British rule is true enough, but the motives of the British government in making the occupation permanent are not, of course, entirely unselfish. No one supposes that, in case the Turkish empire should be successfully reorganized by the Young Turks, Egypt would be passed over to the Turkish government, yet Egypt to this day is nominally a part of the dominions of the sultan of Turkey. Nor does anyone suppose that even if the Egyptians were capable of running their own government the British would grant them independence. In both cases the reason would be the same. Britain holds Egypt in order to protect and dominate the Suez canal and the Red sea route to India. At bottom, the whole Egyptian policy of Britain is military in the sense that Egypt commands a vital point in a great chain of imperial communications. The Egyptian Nationalists so long as this aspect of the situation dominates British statesmanship, may fulminate for a thousand years without driving a single Englishman in khaki out of the country. Their fitness for self government is really a side issue and something to be ignored in the eyes that see beyond Suez to Calcutta.

KING MENELIK.
From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Perhaps Menelik wants to get Abyssinia a reputation as a health resort.

From the Buffalo Express.

It appears that Menelik makes the invariable practice of sleeping even the long sleep with one eye open.

From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

Menelik II, living or dead, was the Diaz of his country. He whipped the Italians, established constitutional government, and called in expert advisers from Europe.

From the Cincinnati Times-Star.

And now there seems to be some doubt if King Menelik is dead. Is it possible that he simply wanted a scrap-book filled with newspaper comment on him?

From the Toledo Blade.

King Menelik's last death is believed to have been fatal.

From the Detroit Times.

We may put yesterday down as one of the days on which the death of King Menelik was not reported.

From the Springfield Union.

King Menelik may not have had as many lives as a cat, but few cats have had as many deaths as he.

THE TOWN-MEETING.
From the Boston Globe.

For nearly a thousand years it has existed, and with comparatively slight change in spirit and in name. "Tun moot" it was in England many centuries ago and "town meetin'" it is in New England today, where it survives as the only real example of simon-pure democracy in the whole complex American political system. Originally an ecclesiastical guild as much as a political unit, the town or township had both its parish meeting and its tun moot. Both were transplanted from the old country into the new—except that the lords of the manor were left at home—and adapted to new conditions and until the separation of town and parish, or of state and church, affairs of this world and of the next were often curiously mingled. Despite the changed character of the population in scores of New England towns, due to the influx of immigrants from Abroad, the ancient institution, which enables the voter both to free his mind and to exert a direct influence by his vote on public matters, flourishes still. Here and there the affairs of a town may be run mostly by a self-perpetuating committee, which tends to paralyze civic spirit, create indifference to public interests, and open the way for petty graft. Here and there the man may chase the office instead of the office chasing the man. Here and there only a handful of voters may attend the annual caucus. But in general town affairs are managed just as honestly and efficiently as the voters want them managed. And no government could be closer to the people than government by town meeting.

A NOBLE CHARITY PROPOSED
From the San Francisco Chronicle.

If Mrs. Russell Sage carries out her announced intention to establish a chain of loan offices for making advances at legal interest on pledges of personal property, she will render one of the greatest possible services to society. Loans on household goods and ornaments and the so-called "salary loans" are unfortunately a public necessity. All pawnbrokers have steady customers in the underworld who regularly pledge their little possessions and quite regularly redeem them. They pay enormous interest and keep at it year after year, but there are also those in respectable walks of life who from improvid nce sickness or other misfortune get into desperate need for small sums which they have no way of getting except by pledging their little possessions. They pay high interest which the pawnbrokers declare to be fully justified by the labor and risk. In some countries however, these accommodations are given at very low rates of interest, and the business is still profitable.

Doubtless the worst abuses of money lending are in connection with the so-called "salary loans." Presumably, there are honest and decent men engaged in that business, which can be made very profitable even when decently conducted, but it is certain that some of those who make such loans are the most remorseless and greedy of usurers. It is their intent, when once an unfortunate man gets into their clutches, to keep him there forever and wrest from him every dollar that he gets, save only barely enough to keep him alive and earning for his master. They are the men who receive and have deserved the name of "loan sharks." Presumably the Sage Foundation for this purpose will include salary loans.

Possibly such a foundation ought not to be called a "charity," for it is proposed to conduct a regular business on business principles and at a profit. The person who pledges his belongings at a Sage Foundation pawnshop, or obtains a salary loan there, will have to enter into very rigid engagements and faithfully keep them. But the engagements will be such as he can probably meet, and he will be encouraged to meet them, and even assisted to do so, so far as good counsel and reasonable indulgence can assist. The intent and effort will be to help people to help themselves, which is really the best and the highest form of charity.

UNCLE WALT

A week has skedaddled wherever weeks go; it's doubtless been paddled across Styx's flow. We're grayer and older and wearier now; our blood's running colder; new lines seam the brow. Old Father Time's tearing; by hustling he thrives; each passing week's paring a slice from our lives. And some who were jolly a short week ago, have learned melancholy and heartache and woe; and some vacant places are now in the room; and some tearwet faces are heavy with gloom. And some who were keeping sad vigils with sighs, have driven the weeping and woe from their eyes. A week is so little, in ages sublime! A splinter we whittle from forests of time! A drop in the ocean, a speck in the skies not worth the commotion we make when it flies! And yet it embraces both gladness and tears, and fastens its traces on all coming years. So may it be granted to people to say, when this week is planted: "'Twas not thrown away! We've toiled and we've striven as well as we could, to reach out for heaven and all that is good!"

The Daily Chit-Chat

"I have done one better thing
Than all the worthies did,
And yet a better thence doth spring,
Which is, to keep that hid."
—John Donne.

Columbia university received a gift the other day of $350,000.

That amount wasn't so very unusual, I suppose. But the condition under which the gift was given was rather exceptional. For the donor of this huge gift insisted upon remaining entirely unknown.

Several other colleges and charities lately have also received lesser but none the less respectable donations under the same conditions.

It looks rather like an epidemic of anonymous giving.

And I hope the epidemic will become chronic.

For there are few people for whom I have a more thorough admiration than those who stop the charity to do a good deed, have also the fineness to want to keep it hid.

I never hear of an anonymous gift without thrilling with admiration to think that, somewhere in the obscurity behind it, is a man or woman fine enough to be able to absolutely do without praise or gratitude.

Charity is a beautiful thing.

Quite too beautiful to be tainted by any unworthy motive.

And isn't the man who gives openly and receives the gratitude of his beneficiaries and the approval of his fellowmen, just a bit too apt to let these things make up some part of his motive for giving?

Is that making too cynical a statement?

I wonder.

But apply the test to yourself.

Doesn't the thought of the approval of your friends and the gratitude you will receive from those you benefit, ever influence your giving the least bit?

Not at all?

Think a bit, brother.

If that is true why did you feel a twinge of disappointment when you found that the sums given toward the minister's Christmas present of which your contribution was head and shoulders above the rest were not to be made public or communicated to the minister at all?

You were doing just as much for the minister. Whence that twinge of disappointment, then, if the congregation's approval and the minister's gratitude had absolutely no share in helping to extract that crisp pinky yellow ten dollar bill from your bill folder?

I suppose some people will say that this is a needlessly hairsplitting discussion, and that the charity for the college or the individual who receives a gift anonymously is not a whit better off because of that anonymousness.

Granted.

But I think the donor is.

For no matter how generous or kind a deed you do a better still awaits you.

'Which is, to keep that hid."

In 1793 certain individuals hired a man to go from Castine to Wiscasset and carry letters and papers once a fortnight. He walked the whole distance over the route. The next year postmasters were appointed and mail sent once a week by carriers on horseback. Rufus Crane, the first postmaster in Warren, collected 20 cents as his pay for his first three months of work.

Experiments which were recently made at the Worcester Polytechnic show that copper sheets which have been electro-deposited with copper possess much greater heat transmission properties than ordinary copper sheets which have not been so coated. It is suggested that this property may affect the design of condensers, radiators, etc.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

Copyright, 1910, by Rev. I. E. Linscott, D. D.

The Question of John the Baptist. Matt. 11:1-19.

Golden Text. But the witness which I have is greater than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to accomplish, the very works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. John 5-36. (R. V.)

Verse 1.—Jesus appears to have taken great pains to instruct his 12 disciples, but why did he not leave them to be instructed wholly by God's spirit?

In the case of preaching, or prayer, or testimony, does God propose for us just to "open our mouths and he will fill them," or that we should be as thoroughly and humanly prepared, as if there were no God?

Does thorough preparation for Christian work, show lack of faith, or strong faith in God? Why?

Verses 2, 3—Why did John ask this question as to whether Jesus was the Christ?

What if any reason is there to believe that John was now wrestling with doubt, as to the truth of what he had been preaching concerning Jesus?

What would you say concerning a man of God teaching spiritual truth, in one period, which he knew to be true, and subsequently having grave doubts of the very truth of which he had been so sure?

Does any kind of doubt on the part of a holy man, necessarily imply sin, or show weakness?

Is doubt a necessary part of God's training or not, for men of strong character and important work?

Verse 4. Why is a man bowed down with sorrow, and crushed with disappointment, not in a condition to properly weigh evidence of spiritual truth?

Jesus said "Go and show John again those things, etc.": is evidence of spiritual truth made more forceful through being repeated on different occasions, and whether or not, why was it necessary to repeat to John what he had already heard?

Why should it not be a blessing to the people if a minister repeated his most effectual sermons?

Verses 5, 6—Jesus laid stress in that day upon his miracles coupled with the fact that he preached the gospel to the poor, as the proof of his Messiahship, but what is the supreme or chief proof today? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Even suppose the miracles of Jesus should prove to be historical myths, would that detract in any measure from the grandeur of his character or the greatness of his work?

Verses 7, 8—What influences caused John to live such a plain, or rigorous life? (See Matt. 3:4 et seq.)

Take for example two men, one devout, the other Godless, one living in a richly furnished home and dressing in good clothes, the other living in a plain home and wearing coarse apparel, which of the two is more likely to be the godless man, and why?

What was the difference in the mode of the life of Jesus, and that of John the Baptist?

Verses 9-11—What were the minimum qualities essential to being a prophet, and in what particular did John exceed these?

In what did the greatness of John the Baptist consist, from the standpoint of Jesus?

If Jesus had in mind a "greater" and a "greater" then in what two senses is this word used by him here?

Verses 12-15—What is religious "violence" and what is the nature of the force which captures the kingdom of heaven?

Verses 16-19—What caused them to denounce John for qualities, the absence of which in Jesus they also denounced?

WANTS 1,000,000 POUNDS

Plan for Object Lesson in Spending Inspires His Request.

From the Baltimore Sun.

When an advertisement appeared in the London Times agony column a few days ago asking some millionaire to entrust the advertiser with a million for two years, most people thought it must be either a joke or a freak of insanity. Later, however, a Daily Mail representative had a long talk with "E. 395" and found him neither a lunatic nor a humorist, but a perfectly rational man of good position, who is anxious in all seriousness to teach the world a great lesson.

It has long struck him as pitiful that few rich men know how to dispose of their accumulated wealth so as to do any good either to themselves or their fellow-creatures. Sitting in a club armchair, throwing open his fur coat, and balancing his tall hat on his knee, he expounded his views.

"I have known a number of millionaires," he said, "both English and American. Almost without exception they get no pleasure out of their wealth. One is in the habit of buying up Japanese ivories, not because he admires them, but simply because they are expensive and hard to find. The only pleasure he gets out of them lies in knowing that he prevented other people from getting them.

"I could multiply instances of this kind, but it is not necessary. Every one who has had much experience of the world is aware that the men who have made money are very seldom able to spend it to advantage. They have had no practice. Their whole life has been given up to their business. They have no interests outside it. They go on working because they have got so accustomed to it that they cannot leave off. Their money is a burden to them, but they go on making more and more from sheer habit.

Wealth Properly Applied.

"Now, I believe that wealth, properly applied, would be a blessing and not a burden. I have drawn up a scheme for the utilization of the income from a million, say £40,000 a year, and I am only waiting for the opportunity to put it into practice. My idea is not charitable, I don't much believe in philanthropy. Nor is it purely self-regarding. It would do good all round and would give the spender an interest and occupation in life.

"No, no," he said laughing, "I do not mean to finance any scheme of Socialism. My family have been Conservative for generations and I follow the tradition. You ask why, if I feel that I could spend money sensibly and enjoy it, I haven't set to and made myself a rich man. I have made a good living, but as I am in a government office with a fixed salary, I cannot do much in the direction of amassing wealth. Whether I shall get the million or not I can't say. It doesn't seem probable yet I have met so many people in my life capable of indulging in out-of-the-way despair. So far I have only had would-be humorous letters, but there is plenty of time."

TO INCREASE WAGES

Manitou School Board Will Probably Put Teachers on Same Salaries as in This City.

In order to prevent the loss of teachers on account of higher salaries offered elsewhere, the Manitou board has practically decided to increase the maximum salaries from $750 to $960 a year, with the present minimum of $600. This will make the schedule the same as in Colorado Springs, and will necessitate an additional mill to the tax levy.

MISTAKES POISON FOR MEDICINE; SLIGHTLY ILL

Miss Ford, who has been on the stage for two or three years, is spending several months with her mother in Manitou.

A STATEMENT.

April 15 1910

To the Electors of School District No 11

I have filed notice of my intention to become a candidate for the office of school director at the ensuing election

The existence of various rumors pertaining to the question as to whether or not Mr Dietrich is or may be an applicant for the office of superintendent leads me to state my position in the matter to the end that there may be no misunderstanding between us

Mr Dietrich has filed his resignation with the school board and the same has been accepted

To me it was, in effect his declaration to the board that he did not desire to be considered as an applicant to succeed himself as the superintendent of our schools and his reply to an inquiry made by some of the members of the present board upon that subject.

I accepted this as final and if elected, shall not therefore, support or vote for Mr Dietrich for such office.

Respectfully,

C H DUDLEY.

WIRE TO BAN BEAT ZOO 15-2

Star Flinger Out of Game--Aerial Trip in Seventh.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER April 16 — "This is Mr. — of Colorado Springs. What was the score in the Denver Grizzlies-Zoo game this afternoon?"

"Fifteen to 2 in favor of Denver."

"What? In favor of the Zooz, you mean'"

It's hard for anybody in Colorado Springs or any of Alderman John Coughlin's friends to get through their heads the fact that the Zooz received a severe drubbing this afternoon. When the Grizzlies got through with the Wild Beastes from Coughlin's Zoo, the animals were perfectly tame and would eat out of one's hand.

All was merry as a honeymoon trip until the seventh inning The Grizzlies had a lead of two runs but the Zooz weren't worried by a small thing like that. But that fatal seventh' The recent aviation meet in Los Angeles was a tame affair compared with the aerial flight of the nine maroon baseball suits that rode up to Denver from Colorado Springs this forenoon.

It is a long, sad story—the story of that seventh inning It brought tears to the eyes of hundreds. In reality, it had its beginning this morning when Manager Hendricks of the Grizzlies got busy and sent a telegram to Ban B. Johnson protesting against the playing of Pitcher Ruger whom Owner Coughlin brought from Chicago to help his Zooz The wires were kept busy on the Q. T. for several hours and finally Johnson came through with an order keeping Ruger out of the game There was consternation in the Zoo camp, Bergman was substituted for Ruger and the game started

The Grizzlies started the seventh with a single, which was followed with a bunt Bergman tried to throw out

TIGERS' STICKS BEAT VICTORY OUT OF MINISTERS

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, April 16—Five feet, two and a half inches of humanity, weighing 135 pounds, commonly known as Al Sherry, captain of the Colorado College Tigers, and a stick of ash of equal size were the dominating factors in the frolic which the Tigers indulged in with the Ministers at Denver university park this afternoon Needless to say the Tigers won, the score being 8 to 1.

The Tigers brand of bats made quite a hit and the way they manufactured two-baggers, triples homers and all other kinds of hits brought nothing but sorrow to the loyal followers of the D U clergymen Captain Sherry was content with a double and triple It took a home run to satisfy Siddons and Friend

As usual the fielding of the Tigers was loose Van Stone pitched a good game holding the Ministers to four scattered hits, striking out nine and walking four Jones arm was working well but he was hit 11 times

YOUTHFUL BALL THIEVES

Small Boys Come Near Breaking Up Game by Stealing Baseballs. Novel Method.

An organized gang of boy baseball thieves marred the Cutler-Centennial ball game at Washburn field yesterday afternoon At least a half dozen brand new baseballs were stolen by the youthful criminals, none of whom was more than 14 years of age As soon as a foul ball went out of the field one of the gang would pounce on it and throw it to one of his pals a short distance away The ball would be relayed several blocks from the field before any of the management could get out of the field after it

Not content with stealing balls a large gang of boys made a rush for the gate and forced a way into the game When members of the Cutler team tried to keep the gang back they were assaulted and several blows were struck The one unpleasant feature of baseball games at Washburn field is the manner in which small boys overrun the stands and bleachers and annoy the people who have paid good money to see the game.

In Celebration of His Sixteenth Birthday George Dickinson Pitches One-Hit Game for Cutler Nine

Master George Dickinson a good-natured youth of pleasing personality, yesterday afternoon celebrated his sixteenth birthday by sitting in in a friendly seance at Washburn field George who is exceptionally smooth for a lad of his years won the deal and dished out the cards in such a manner that his friends, the Cutler Academy boys took the pot on an 11-to-2 basis Pueblo Centennial, Master George's guests took the two

Yesterday was George's first appearance in interscholastic baseball society, and he made quite a killing He was stingy with his hits and allowed only one of the visitors to strike him safely He fanned six, walked four scored two runs made one hit, and generally mixed himself up in the game until he alone looked like a dozen players

Allied with George in making the Centennial gang look like a corner lot aggregation was a stocky slugger who bears the name of John McFarlane John was a perfect demon with the bat The first two times he faced Hopkins he was content with singles The third time Hennebold was loafing on first, so Mac biffed out a three-bagger that fell in a prairie dog hole on the east slope of Washburn field. When he came next in the fifth the bases were full.

"Now for a homer!" yelled the coach

It would never do to hit the ball too hard, thought Mac, for an organized gang of kid pirates had been swiping foul balls until it looked as if the game must be called for lack of something to play with With this in view he carefully placed a two-bagger out in right field, cleaning the bases

Jackson at second played like a fiend and did some clever fielding. Captain Flannigan's pegging was great, and despite the gale against which he was forced to throw, he downed three of the visitors when they tried to steal second Keating pulled off some sensational stops at short, but played in hard luck at the bat. He made three of the scores for his team. Hennebold showed good form at the bat, but missed a fly in left field.

Owing to the strong wind that blew from the north, it was almost impossible to field a high fly Fair hits frequently were carried over the foul line and it was nothing uncommon for a deep field fly to be blown back over the pitcher's box.

Hopkins, a football star, and one of the best southpaw high school twirlers in the state, pitched a good game but his support was poor.

Yesterday's game opened the interscholastic baseball season in this city. The score:

BOB ARMSTRONG SAYS JACK HAS NO CHANCE

Colored Trainer Picks Jeffries to Recover Championship—Laughs at Latest Score Story.

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

One of the letters of advice received by Jeffries recently, and like all other champions before him, he is a mark for the advice and warnings of all kinds of cranks, told him he was foolish to employ the colored pugilist, Bob Armstrong, as an assistant trainer

Jeff was reminded that his affair with Johnson is to be a clash of the races and that it was decidedly unwise to have a negro associated with him during his time of preparation It was pointed out that it would be the easiest thing in the world for Armstrong to administer some drug to Jeff when the date of the fight was close at hand and thus spoil the white man's chance of victory.

Jeff laughed at the communication and consigned it to the litter heap where a lot of other "crank letters" already repose The idea that faithful Bob Armstrong would try to work him an injury simply amused him

While at Jeffries' camp at Rowardennan recently, the writer had a chat with Armstrong and the subject of the letter of warning came up

"Clash of the races be hanged" said Bob

"I'm a colored man and am always proud of the colored man's success but helping to train pugilists is my business and I should be allowed to take my wares to the best market I am with Jeffries from inclination because I have trained with him many times before and he has always treated me as a man should be treated I can't say as much for Johnson but even that's not the point Any man who earns his living the way I do aims to work on the winning side if he can manage it Now I have sized this thing out and I am as sure as the daylight that Jeff is going to defeat Johnson That's why I jumped at the chance to go with Jeff when he asked me

If Johnson wins I'll be a joke among the colored people They will have the laugh on me If Jeffries wins it will boost me What I mean is that the race feeling will only continue if Johnson comes out on top If Jeff is the victor the men of my color will congratulate me for being on the winning side"

MILLIONAIRE DEFEATS BARNEY OLDFIELD IN RACE

LOS ANGELES, April 16—Caleb Bragg, the millionaire amateur automobile racing enthusiast, today defeated Barney Oldfield in the first heat of a three-heat match race at the motordrome. The race was at two miles, standing start.

Bragg in his 90-horsepower Fiat car, secured the lead and won by about 20 feet in 1 28 73. Oldfield drove his Benz car He started at such a terrific speed that the tires could not clutch the track and Bragg was enabled to get a good lead before Barney could get going. The deciding heats will be run tomorrow.

In the five-mile race for cars of 301-450 cubic inches displacement the Buick driven by Nick Rent beat Harroun in 148 miles in the allotted time. He did for the class

The long event of the day was a 2-hour race, in which eight cars were entered Harroun in a Marmon car led all the way to the finish, traveling 148 miles in the alloted time He did not make a single stop for repairs, oil, tires, or gasoline and was given a record. At the end of 100 miles his time was 80 30 24, never before equaled

DICK CARMAN'S BLUE AND WHITE VICTORIOUS

Semprelus Shows Flash of Gameness in Finish That Augurs Well.

By Ed Curley.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The white and blue colors of Dick Carman, the well-known turfman, flashed across the line to a remarkable victory in the Canarsie stake this afternoon at Aqueduct, when Semprelus defeated a classy field of 2-year-olds. The big bay colt displayed a flash of gameness in the final drive that makes him one of the dangerous youngsters of the coming season. Appearing hopelessly beaten a furlong from the wire he suddenly developed a turn of speed that was wonderful and sailed under the wire a victor by a length. Frank Mullins, the colt that came from Juarez, heralded as a world beater, finished second and four lengths behind Mullins was Babbler, which carried the colors of August Belmont

Besom the consistent sprinter belonging to David Dunlop, made every post a winning one in the fifth race. The Ben Brush gelding covered the six furlongs in 1 13 flat, which is something remarkable at this time of the year Besom was neglected in the betting to a great extent. The layers made him a 3 to 5 choice at the opening but he gradually soared to 6 to 5 before any money showed He was nibbled at by the many who remembered his good races last year and closed at 11 to 10 The heavy play was on Ben Loyal, which finished second The latter was backed from fives to threes. Right Easy, one of Bidwell's starts, got the show money.

JEFFRIES IS RELIEVED

Operation on Wife Success Champion Works With Unusual Vim Regular Boxing Tomorrow.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., April 16.—With the news of the success of the operation on Mrs. Jeffries, a general air of good feeling and relief pervaded the Jeffries training camp this afternoon and the big fighter worked with a vim which he has not shown since beginning training. He put in two hours in the gymnasium, going through his entire routine of training exercises, with the exception of boxing. The only rough work of the day was the wrestling bout with Farmer Burns, when the two heavyweights engaged in a fast mill of mauling and tussling. The Farmer's wrist was slightly injured by a vigorous twist by the boilermaker but soon was restored by a brisk massage.

Before beginning work this afternoon Jeffries said he felt better than at any time since taking up training He says he has overcome a tendency to drink too much water after luncheon and is feeling better on this account. Tomorrow will be another holiday Jeffries will go to Santa Cruz where he will inaugurate the baseball season by pitching the first ball

Joe Choynski is expected to arrive Monday and a regular boxing routine will then be begun Berger plans to increase the daily amount of sparring next week and the schedule will be lengthened to six rounds instead of the usual three

SAM IS BAD MAN FOR PILOT

Berger Gets Nutty. Would Sell Press Dope to Papers.

By W. W Naughton

"Whatever they may say about me," said wise Sammy before packing up the trunk and departing for the west after the articles were signed, "they have to admit that I have got a lot of money for Jeff which he wouldn't have picked up any other way"

Sam's ideas run to money. Money is a good thing and it makes the mare go. It makes the fighters fight. It furnishes the primary reason for this big fight which is coming, but it is an unwise thing to make the money end the big overpowering end, and by playing hard upon the almighty dollar in all its connections with this fight and its promotion, nothing but harm can result.

We want to believe, if we can, that Jeff and Johnson are going to fight like a pair of Turks and that the winning of the fight is to be the main consideration It is the safest bet in the world that after either one of the big fellows gets a swift bat in the nose, it WILL be a fight without the slightest thought of moving pictures or the almighty dollar or anything else. That's human nature.

Mr. Berger has made another silly blunder into which he had been betrayed by his desire to snatch every penny in sight, and unfortunately this is a mistake which must hurt big, good-natured, easy-going Jim Jeffries. Berger has announced himself that beginning as soon as Jeff goes to work at Rowardennan, he (Berger) will install a news bureau in order to furnish the newspapers of the country with "exclusive and valuable information" The startling thing about this naive press agent proposal is that Mr. Berger wants the newspapers to pay for the privilege of boosting the fight. But read Sammy's letter and draw your own conclusions.

To the Sporting Editor.

"Within a week, a fortnight at least, James J. Jeffries will have settled

INTEREST LAGS IN BALLINGER INQUIRY

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE DODGE SESSION.

Secretary's Assistant Takes on His Should'r Responsibility for Some Disputed Letters.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—E. C. Finney, assistant to the secretary of the interior, occupied the stand throughout both sessions of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee today. Most of the time was taken up in cross-examinations by Attorney Brandeis, representing Louis R. Glavis, and Attorney Pepper, chief counsel for Mr. Pinchot.

Because of his long service in the interior department, Mr. Finney proved to be a prolific witness in that Mr. Brandeis was enabled to get into the record much technical testimony as to the general course of business in the land office.

This line of questioning proved tedious and an attack of "spring fever" appeared to strike every one concerned with the investigation. Chairman Nelson was absent and Vice Chairman McCall had difficulty in keeping a quorum together. Several spectators fell asleep.

The absence of so many members of the committee prevented a ruling on the request of Mr. Brandeis that he be allowed to defer cross-examination of subordinate officials of the interior department until he has had opportunity to question Mr. Ballinger himself. A decision probably will be reached when the sessions are resumed next Friday.

Witness Corrects His Testimony.

Mr. Brandeis drew from Mr. Finney the statement that in the memorandum submitted to the attorney general with a request for an interpretation of the new Alaskan coal lands law of 1908, the Cunningham claims were already excepted.

"Then why," asked the attorney, "does Secretary Ballinger say in a letter to Miles C. Moore, one of the Cunningham claimants, that he is referring the matter to the attorney general?"

"I did not write that letter," replied the witness.

"But didn't you say yesterday that you wrote it?"

"I said I wrote two of the letters that were sent to Governor Moore. I was mistaken as to this one. This is not one I wrote."

"Mr. Finney, does the attorney general in his report to the President mention the fact that Mr. Hoyt, special counsel for the government, called on him at Mr. Glavis' suggestion in connection with the importance of this opinion?"

"I don't believe he does.

Wrote Letters to La Follette.

Attorney Pepper asked the witness particularly about the Ballinger replies to letters written by Senator La Follette asking for an explanation of certain restoration of water power sites made by Mr. Ballinger. Mr. Finney said he wrote these letters. He denied that he had specifically consulted with Secretary Ballinger as to what he should say.

"Mr. Finney," said Mr. Pepper, "why didn't you say in your replies that the real reason for the restorations was the fact that Secretary Ballinger did not believe the withdrawals had been legal?"

"Because there had been a conference at the White House and Mr. Ballinger had decided to rewithdraw the lands."

"Then you tried to make your replies harmonize these differences?"

"No, it was not that exactly."

down to his California training camp. Immediately thereafter I will begin furnishing the press of the United States with daily and weekly letters (mail and telegraph) covering his training campaign. I will have had established in the camp an exclusive and official photographer to take photos of my charge, his trainers and distinguished visitors as they arrive.

"It is needless for me to impress upon you the value of data which will be at my command. Assisting me will be a competent corps of writers, artists and photographers, and if you care to handle the matter be good enough to advise me. My rates will be your rates per column.

"An early reply will appreciated.

"Yours truly,
"SAM BERGER."

"P. S.—The letters will include signed statements from the principal, his trainers, distinguished sports as they come to camp, and

"Yours truly,

This is a remarkable communication in several respects, chiefly because of the bland assurance of the very young man who writes it. If Berger had any experience he would realize that the newspapers are not in the habit of paying for press agent stories, though they sometimes take them if the press agent crawls into the city editor's office on his stomach and shows a proper spirit of humility. Coffroth, McCarey and other big promoters hire press agents whose business it is to dish up all the live news in attractive shape which is given to all the papers in the territory affected by the coming attraction, and if some of the papers print the stories Coffroth and McCarey are deeply gratified.

Yet, here we have young Berger, a haberdasher suddenly hoisted to a dizzy height by his association with a great fighter, coolly offering to furnish press agent stuff provided he is paid for the same. A wiser man than Berger could not get away with a thing of this sort and it can have but one effect, to create hostile sentiment against the man whom Berger is mismanaging.

TAFT PARTIC PATES IN ALUMNI ANTICS

President Makes Addresses in Merry Mood at a Couple of Banquets.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Taft was the guest of the Bankers association of the District of Columbia this evening, and after addressing the members and invited guests, joined with his Washington fellow alumni of the Psi Upsilon fraternity in their annual dinner. He arrived at the latter banquet in time to participate in Psi Upsilon antics such as were in order when he was a student at Yale, and remained until the close of the festivities.

The President was in a merry mood at both dinners. At each he discussed the hardships of a President's life, and at the Psi Upsilon banquet declared that one term as President was enough for him. He seemed, however, to be speaking in a Pickwickian sense. Herbert L. Bridgeman, president of the fraternity, in an address preceding the President's, had given a recipe for obtaining 25 successive terms.

The President talked about his stewardship and its possibilities at the banker dinner. There he discussed the development of the beauty of the capital city, and in that connection he remarked: "I have to live here three years more."

"Seven, seven, seven years more" was the answer to this statement from scores of bankers around the tables.

"Well," President Taft replied, "judging from the influence of the electoral vote from the District of Columbia it is not such as to swell my head any by your indorsement."

At the fraternity dinner the President lauded fraternity spirit in college life and also praised college athletics.

BURLINGTON SECURES CALIFORNIA CONNECTION

Traffic Agreements Between Hill and Gould Lines Concluded at Conference in Denver.

DENVER, Colo., April 16.—At a conference of railroad officials today the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and the Denver & Rio Grande and Western Pacific lines concluded traffic agreements whereby these systems will interchange business in Denver and the Gould lines will become the outlet to California for the Hill roads.

President Darius Miller of the Burlington road said after the conference that through passenger trains probably would be operated from Chicago by way of Denver to San Francisco.

"The Burlington does not own a dollar's worth of stock in the Denver & Rio Grande," said Mr. Miller. "Whoever bought the $4,000,000 worth at par evidently wanted it quite badly. It was not our road, however, that made that deal. I do not know whether it was Mr. Hawley or not."

G. W. Holdredge, general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, said that the Burlington had made a temporary contract to use the Chicago & Northwestern tracks from Shoshone, Wyo., to a Colorado & Southern connection at Orin Junction, pending the completion of its own line, and that through that arrangement it was expected that the Colorado & Southern and the Burlington would jointly be in a position to inaugurate a gulf to coast service by the first of the year.

The Burlington officials also announced that they had agreed to an increase of three cents an hour in the pay of yardmen on the entire system with the exception of Denver.

As a result of the agreement between the Gould and Hill roads it is announced that they will abandon the contemplated joint traffic agreement between the Colorado & Southern the Santa Fe and the Denver & Rio Grande, whereby the Denver & Rio Grande and Santa Fe tracks were to have been used jointly between Denver and Pueblo, one line for southbound and the other for northbound business.

In this primary Mr. Percy and Mr. Vardaman will be candidates.

Hupmobile "20"

4 Cylinders 20 H. P. | $750.00 F. O. B. Detroit | Sliding Gears, Bosch Magneto

This is the car that made 30 consecutive round trips from Denver to Colorado Springs and return in 30 days—4,500 miles. First trip March 12, last trip April 10. Carrying on an average of four passengers each trip, or 240 passengers on the 60 trips. This car had been, previous to this, over 10,000 miles.

On March 30 when the car made its eighteenth trip between Denver and Palmer Lake, the snow was from one to three feet deep, and in places drifted to over four feet deep, yet the car came through to Colorado Springs in perfect condition.

The Hupmobile's obvious advantages: Low first cost and low cost of maintenance. This is what you are all looking for.

Most small cars are makeshifts in material in construction and in design. The Hupmobile is just as smart in appearance as the finest big car. If it were a larger car we could not afford to make it so good.

"SEE THE CAR" and arrange at once for a demonstration and you will realize what a wonderful little car it is.

On the Brighton Beach track, August 2, the $750 Hupmobile defeated two S. T. O. French cars, listing at $2,100; one Allen-Kingston, $3,000, and one Mitchell, $2,000, in the six-hour race, covering 236 miles.

This smart little car only weighs 1,100 pounds, and therefore you rarely ever have any tire trouble.

This car holds the road race record for stock cars of 30 horsepower for 1909 and 1910.

ROOSEVELT HUNTING IN AFRICA, AT THE CRYSTAL

Manager Cummings should be, and undoubtedly will be, generously supported by the citizens of Colorado Springs for the effort he has made to secure the marvelous Roosevelt hunting pictures. To secure the pictures at so early a date with so many exhibitors anxious to show them is one of the best evidences of the enterprise of this popular manager.

MANAGER L. E. CUMMINGS,
Of the Crystal and Lyric.

The pictures are not released until Monday morning, thereby making it possible for Colorado Springs people to see them as soon as people in the larger cities. We say they are marvelous because that word best expressed the opinion of the censor board. There never was such an actor before the moving picture camera as Colonel Roosevelt. One whose acting is always good and one who is the most beloved and talked-of man of the hour. His name sends an electric thrill through the heart of every American.

The pictures are the most successful ever taken of such a gigantic undertaking. Mr. Cheny-Kearton of London faithfully photographed the most important features of this wonderful trip and his corps of able assistants have recorded one of the most wonderful trips of modern times. As an educational proposition it is unsurpassed.

Don't think of missing it. Watch for the date in the amusement advertisements.

Enormous Tract of Rich San Luis Valley Land Opened to Cultivation

LATERAL ON THE COSTILLA ESTATE.

BUNGALOW AT SAN ACACIO, COSTILLA ESTATE.

PLOWING ON THE ESTATE.

AN EVENT of great import[illegible] to the state of Colorado [illegible] especially to the San [illegible] valley, took place last Th[illegible] when the first section of the [illegible] Southern railway was formally [o]pened for operation.

The road runs in a southerly direction from Blanca, a point about 30 miles east of the Rio Grande river on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. Its route is through a rich agricultural district, comprising the eastern half of [th]e famous valley. The present objective point of the road is Taos, N. M., and the line to that point will be 59 miles in length. The road has been built and financed by interests [allied] with the Costilla Estates Development company, owning the south portion of the Sangre de Christo Grant, comprising approximately 500,000 acres of land in Costilla county, Colo., and Taos county, N. M., and it was for the purpose of furnishing railroad facilities to this immense acreage that the road was first contemplated. However, it is now seen that the road will prove a much needed shipping outlet to the territory both north and south of the holdings of the Costilla Estates Development company, and will be the means of opening up to settlers over [a] million acres of very fertile agricultural lands. The particular part of the San Luis valley traversed by this road is noted for its abundant harvest of grain and its enormous yields of alfalfa, but chief among its resources are the famous San Luis valley field peas. In addition to these crops the San Luis valley has carried off high honors in the production of potatoes, and in fact, at the state fair last year took first place, which had been held for years by the Greeley district. Small garden truck is also profitably grown, and its sugar beets are known to yield an enormous per cent of sugar. The country has been farmed in a more or less desultory way by the Mexicans, who were the original settlers in the territory. Recently, however, in the neighborhood of 50,000 acres have been sold to American farmers, and they are moving in very rapidly. It is confidently expected that with American methods and American enterprise, this portion of the valley is sure to become one of the garden spots of the world. The cultivation of this territory is bound to prove an immense addition to the agricultural resources of the state.

CULEBRA RIVER.

The Costilla Estates Development company is carrying on immense operations on its property in the valley. It has already constructed three reservoirs with feeding and distribution system of canals with a capacity to irrigate about 25,000 acres of land, and it is just now beginning work upon a reservoir which will be the largest reservoir in the state, and will hold water sufficient to irrigate from 75,000 to 100,000 acres of land. This company has secured all the available water rights in the territory, and has abundant water to fill its reservoirs.

Two Towns on New Line.

Two towns have been organized along the line of the new railroad. One of them, San Acacio, which is the terminus of the first division of the railroad, is already quite a thriving community. It has a fine hotel, a general store, railroad depot and general offices of the railroad company, besides several attractive dwellings which have been erected by farmers moving into the community. The general offices in the valley for the Costilla Estates company are also maintained here.

Mesita, the next town along the railroad, is being settled by a colony of land owners and capitalists [illegible]. They have already [illegible] [illegible] government, [illegible] [illegible] are being [illegible] [illegible] town has a [illegible] [illegible]ment store, [illegible] [illegible] is bound to [illegible] [comm]unity.

Some 20,000 acres [illegible] cultivated for the [illegible] [illegible] in the vicinity of [illegible] [illegible] together with [illegible] [illegible] cattle and hog [illegible] the new railroad an [illegible] at the start. Material for the [illegible] [illegible] development being carried [illegible] also be shipped over the new line and its tonnage will be more than it can satisfactorily handle.

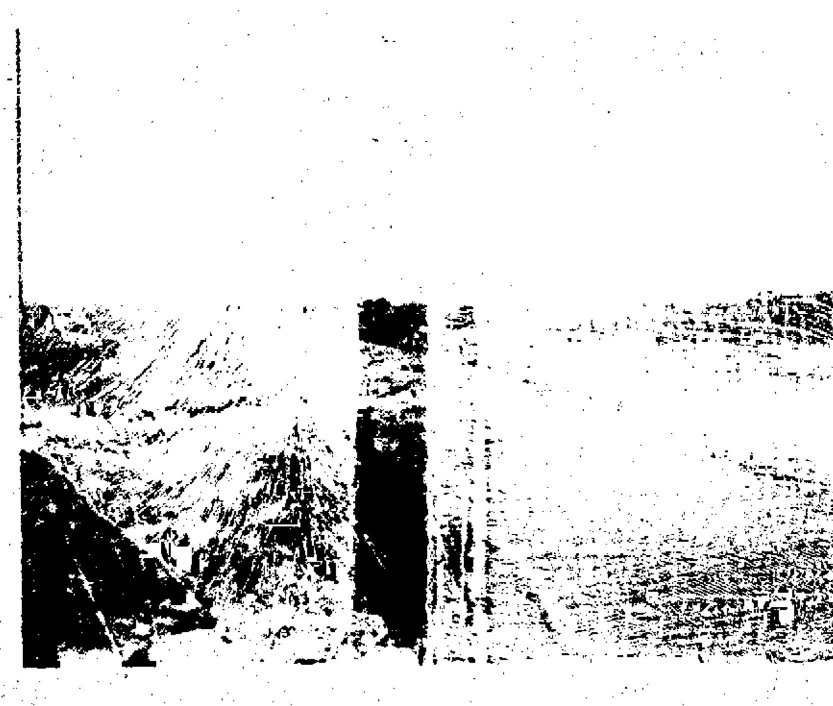

[illegible] [illegible] from all [over] the state, many of whom are interested in the development of the valley and the state. The guests were all entertained royally by the company; a delightful lunch was served by Davis and Mueth of Colorado Springs, and after luncheon the guests were taken in automobiles and carriages over the farming land in the valley and to inspect the irrigation work which has been under construction. All report a royal good time, and join in best wishes to the new company.

OUTLET EASTDALE DAM.

EASTDALE DITCH

In addition to the officers named the directors are: Bayard Dominick, New York city; Hon. James T. Dunbar, former judge, of Boston, Mass.; M. V. Kellen, capitalist, Boston; Otto T. Mallery, capitalist, Philadelphia; Senator C. J. Hughes, Jr., Denver; Fred G. Moffat, banker; Albert Smith, lawyer; C. S. Hanghwout, banker; Clyde W. Turnbull and Walter Willmot, [illegible] of Denver.

Besides these, the following are heavily interested in the railroad company and the Costilla Estates Development company: Senator William Lorimer of Illinois, Congressman John W. Weeks of Massachusetts and Francis E. Leupp, former United States Indian commissioner.

The San Luis valley in Colorado contains about 3,100,000 acres of land. This is an area as large as the state of Connecticut. The immense tract is 100 miles from north to south and about 75 miles from east to west. About two-thirds of the valley has already been brought under irrigation [illegible]

Marvelous Arts Known to Ancients Are Now Lost

History Reveals Many Secrets in Glass, Steel and Other Work Which Cannot Now Be Explained.

From W. Winder in the Chicago Tribune.

It is said that the art of luminous painting known to the Japanese so long ago as A. D. 976, in the dynasty of the Emperor Tai Tsung of the Sung dynasty, who had in his possession a picture painted by one Su Ngch, that was a spirited affair, being nothing more or less, however, than a picture of an ox that every day left the picture frame to graze and then returned to the frame to sleep at night. The thing worried the emperor, as it seemed to be more realistic than was necessary in just a common picture of a common ox, so he made numerous inquiries among his subjects as to why the ox, being only a picture, daily went out to graze.

Marvelous Art.

None of the people, of course, could explain the phenomenon, and the emperor finally appealed to a certain wise Buddhist priest, who said that the Japanese painter had known of an ancient secret and applied it to his art in painting the picture. It really was nothing, explained the learned priest, more than that the artist had found some nacreous substance within the flesh of a certain kind of oyster that could be picked up among the rocks when the tide was low. This substance was dried and then ground into the color material, and pictures painted with these colors were invisible by day and luminous by night, so the secret was that during the day the figure of the ox was not visible, and it was therefore said that it left the fram to go grazing.

History relates that during the age of Tiberius a Roman workman who had been banished was allowed to return to Rome, which he did, bringing with him a glass cup—a really wonderful cup, for he dashed it upon the pavement and it was not broken by the fall, although dented, but with a hammer he easily bent it into shape again. It was brilliant, transparent, but not brittle. It is further stated that the Romans were much interested, and learned that the man had obtained the cup from the Arabians, who were wonderful chemists. In the books of that long ago time there is a glass mentioned that, supported by one end, by its own weight would in a day dwindle down to a fine line, and could be curved around the wrist like a bracelet.

Thebian Glass Blowers Wonderful.

The glassblowers of ancient Thebes are known to have been far in advance of the most proficient craftsmen of our day of "progress, some 4,000 years later. They were well acquainted with the art of staining glass and are known to have produced that article in great profusion and perfection. Rosellini tells of a piece of stained glass known to be 4,000 years old, which displayed artistic taste of high order, both in tint and design. In this specimen the color is struck through the vitrified structure, and he mentions [illegible] [des]igns struck entirely in pieces from one-half to three-quarters of an inch thick, the color being perfectly incorporated with the structure of the piece and exactly the same on both sides.

The priests of Ptah at Memphis were adepts in the glassworker's art, and not only did they have manufactories for the common crystal varieties, but they had learned the vitrifying of the different colors and the imitating of precious stones to perfection. Their imitations of the amethyst and of the various other colored gems were so like the real articles that even now, after they have lain in the sands of the desert from 2,000 to 4,000 years, it takes an expert to tell them from the genuine. It is known also that they used the diamond for cutting and engraving glass and in the British museum there is a beautiful piece of stained glass with an engraved emblazonment of the monarch Thothmes III, who lived over 3,400 years ago.

Damascus Blades Never Equaled.

Proclus, who had a fame greater than Archimedes as a mathematician, is credited with having made burning glass during the reign of Anastasius Dicorus which was of such remarkable efficacy that at a great distance he set fire to and destroyed the [fleets] of the Mysian and Thracian [fleets] that had blockaded Byzantium.

The Damascus blades, those marvels of perfect steel, have never been equaled, and those in use during the crusades, 800 years ago, are today good as new. In [illegible] there is one on exhibition that can be put in a scabbard almost as crooked as a corkscrew and bent every way without breaking. The point of this sword can be made to touch the hilt.

The mysticism of this oriental steel has long been a subject for writers, and the poets have sung its praises. Sir Walter Scott, in his "Talisman," describes a meeting between Richard Coeur de Lion and Saladin, wherein Saladin asks Richard to show him the wonderful strength for which he is noted, and the Norman monarch responds by severing a bar of iron which lies on the floor of the tent. Saladin says that he "could not do that," but he takes an eiderdown pillow from a couch and, drawing his keen blade across it, it falls in two pieces. At this feat Richard says: "This is the black art—it is magic; you cannot cut that which has no resistance." Saladin, to show him that such is not the case, takes his scarf from his shoulders, which is so light that it almost floats in the air, and, tossing it up, severs it before it can descend. Some people have thought that Scott exaggerated just a little here, but such probably is not the case, for [it] has been told by a recent traveler that he once saw a man in Calcutta throw a handful of silk floss in the air and a Hindoo promptly severed it with his sabre.

There is on exhibition in the Army Medical museum at Washington a specimen of microscopic writing on glass. This writing consists of the words of the Lord's Prayer, and occupies a rectangular measuring 1-294 by 1-441 of an inch, or an area of 1-129654 of a square inch. These lines are about 1-50,000 of an inch apart. Now, to get some idea of the minuteness of this writing: There are in the Lord's Prayer 227 letters, and, as here, this number occupies the 1-129654 of an inch, there would be room on an entire square inch for 29,432,458 such letters similarly spaced. The entire Bible, Old and New Testaments, contain but 3,566,480 letters, and there would, therefore, be room enough to write the entire Bible eight times over on one square inch of glass in the same manner as the words of the Lord's Prayer have been written on this specimen. Such a statement staggers the imagination, but the figures are easily verified and are certainly correct.

Along this same line of almost incredible minuteness is the story of one Mark Scaliot, a locksmith who in 1578, in the twentieth year of Queen Elizabeth's reign, made a lock consisting of eighteen pieces of steel, iron and brass, with a hollow key to it, that altogether weighed but one grain of gold. He also made a gold chain composed of forty-three links, which he fastened to the lock and key. In the presence of the queen he put the chain about the neck of a flea, which drew it with ease, after which he put the lock and key, flea and chain into a pair of scales, and they together weighed but one grain and a half. This story is vouched for by an old writer, and must be true, for no old writer never has been known to exaggerate.

Many instances of mechanical ingenuity really remarkable to us in these days, when we are supposed to have advanced in learning, are related by various ancient authors. "The silver sphere, a most noble and ingenious performance," which was presented [to the] Sultan [illegible] by his imperial majesty Ferdinand [illegible] [illegible] by Paulus Jovius as showing [illegible] [illegible] the motions of the celestial bodies [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] [illegible] together by the [illegible]

Myrmecides [illegible] so proficient in [illegible] that he made [illegible] [illegible] its decks, masts, [illegible] rigging [illegible] sails in so small a compass [illegible] might have been hidden under the wing of a fly. He also made a chariot with four wheels and [illegible] harnessed horses, which took [up] scarcely more room than a ship.

George Whitehead, an Englishman, made a ship, with [illegible] things pertaining to it, to move [illegible] stood upon a table. All hands were aloft, a woman made [illegible] music on a lute, and a little puppy cried in the midship [illegible] of which variety " says the old writer, "was pleasant and diverting."

Greek Fire Now Unknown.

An artisan named Cornelius [illegible] [illegible] once made an instrument [illegible] [li]ke an organ that, being [illegible] [illegible] air, under a warm sun, would [illegible] [o]f itself without the keys being touched, but would not play [in] the shade. For this reason it is supposed that it was inclosed air rarefied by the sun, that caused the harmony.

his production of "The Geisha," ran for a solid year at Daly's theatre New York. Perhaps one of the best achievements from an artistic point was when she studied San Tuzza in "Cavaleria Rusticana" in three days and played it at the Schiller theater Chicago for three weeks while at the same time Calve was playing San Tuzza at the Auditorium with Maurice Grau's opera company, and the critics declared the two so favorably that it was hard to tell who had the better of it. Of course we all know of Miss Morton's creation of the widow, Mrs. Crocker, in Henry W. Savage's production of "The Prince of Pilsen," which was originally produced at the Tremont theater, Boston, and has since toured every city and hamlet in this continent.

A STUBBORN CINDERELLA."

Mr. Mort. H. Singer, with the aid of the successful authors, Messrs. Bolton, Adams and Howard, has produced numerous successful musical comedies at his beautiful Princess theater Chicago, notably "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Golden Girl," "Honeymoon Trail," "The Girl Question," "The Goddess of Liberty," etc., etc., but the greatest of all was his quaint musical play, "A Stuborn Cinderella," in which Mr. Homer B. Mason is the bright particular star and which will be seen at the Opera House on next Saturday evening.

This clever play had a run of over a year in Chicago, continuing on its merry way last summer after the torrid weather compelled the closing of the doors of every theater in the city. Last summer it duplicated the Chicago experience in Boston. "A Stubborn Cinderella" is woven around the fairy tale, and in the second act is introduced a dance minuet that is the feature of the play. A short scenario of the play follows:

Lady Leslie is the daughter of a Scotch earl and is traveling under espionage in America. Very innocent of the ways of the world, she falls in with boys and girls of Columbus college, meets "Mac," who is the life, and in fact, the "whole works" of the college, and, deluded into the belief that he is a great sculptor, falls in love with him, unknown to her guardian. The "sculptor" travels with the party, and in a beautiful scene in the second act, he weaves the Cinderella spell over her. In the fire-light Lady Leslie sees the minuet. Her sweetheart leads her through it, only to disappear. "But my prince came back," is her dream. And then follows the awakening. In the last act Lady Leslie is to pledge her hand to the royal suitor by drinking from the loving cup, but she turns from it impulsively and gives her hand to her poor suitor. The scenic effects are magnificent and novel. The second act set on the Mexican border is worthy of a Belasco. The hotel natatorium scene in the third act is an orange symphony. The local management gives every assurance that the same big production seen at the Princess theater, Chicago, will be shown here in its entirety, requiring three baggage cars to transport all the scenery and effects.

THE MERRIEST OF ALL OPERAS.

The merriest of all comic operas, the greatest musical success in the history of the stage, and the only light opera of recent years that will live is coming to town, "The Merry Widow." Victor Leon and Leo Stein's libretto has been heard in three languages and Lehar's music is being sung around the world. Of all the productions that the bewilderingly beautiful piece has ever been given, that provided by Henry W. Savage, who has the exclusive rights to the operetta in this country, is the greatest and best. It will be seen in this city in all its magnificence at the Opera House soon.

This is not the first time that the play has visited here. It will not be likely to be the last time, either. As long as the people love melody, delight in spectacle and sympathize with lovers, so long will "The Merry Widow" remain popular and delightful. For the Lehar operetta has all the requirements of a successful theatrical presentation. It appeals alike to the emotions and to the senses that apprehend the beautiful. It is the very spirit of youth and joy. There is nothing like it in the literature of light opera. This truth has been endorsed by over three years of growing success. From New York to San Francisco it has left a thread of melody and a line as long as the Continent is wide of delighted hearers.

First of all the love story is authentic and strong enough to make drama out of it. It centers in the affections of Prince Danilo for Widow Sonia and of the latter's unadmitted love for the Prince. Whether she can entice him to say the words that he has sworn to her, he will not say "I love you," or whether piqued by her hint that he loves her for her millions, he will remain silent, is the question to which the plot devotes itself. There are a hundred pretty complications and intrigues as complicated as any imagined by Dumas. Every scene presents a world of colorful animation. The [illegible] which climaxes in the new [illegible] and which epitomizes [illegible] is presented by [illegible] artists and a chorus of [illegible] selected with [illegible] Henry W. Savage is [illegible] productions [illegible] Widow and [illegible]

[illegible] PATRONE

New York Theatrical Letter

By Emory B. Calbert.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Henry B. Harris has appeared on the musical horizon. As a producer of the drama he has already won his laurels, and from recent indications, he will achieve a similar success in the musical field. His first attempt, "A Skylark," which recently had its premier at the New York theater, is not by any means the greatest musical comedy on Broadway, but it is a very entertaining one, which is more than can be said of the average play of this kind. The credit, however, rests mainly with the [illegible] for a great [illegible] brettist and his work was decidedly amateurish although promising. Frank D. Dossert was responsible for the lyrics, and he should at least be given credit for not striking an abundance. From the time the curtain goes up in the first act revealing a group of figures gathered on the deck of the good ship "Perseus," until it drops on the [illegible] shutting out from view the glories of Mount Olympus, the [illegible] gods of mythology, [illegible] round of songs [illegible] are tuneful; oth- [illegible] devoted entirely to [illegible] tier chorus and more exquisite stage settings cannot be seen along Broadway.

William Harris, Jr., brother of Henry B. Harris, made his debut as a marvelous whistler, who does not know what it is not to get from one to half a dozen encores. Probst is a bird at least he can whistle like one, and his flute-like notes are inexpressibly beautiful. He uses a stereopticon to show the birds he imitates.

These five acts, together with the motion pictures on the Majestiscope canvas and the concert orchestra program make up a strong and complete bill, but at each of the Thursday and Friday performances, in addition to all this, Manager Tallmen will exhibit five reels of motion pictures showing Colonel Roosevelt in Africa, which were secured at great cost and the showing of which to this city entails [illegible] They are the first pictures of the ex-president in Africa [illegible] the west and are full of interesting scenes. But there will [illegible] additional charge. They [illegible] only 10, as [illegible] promised. The scene is supposed to [illegible] the home of the gods on Mount Olympus, and I doubt if the gods had anything more gorgeous. A very bulky Jupiter who is well-versed in up-to-date New York slang, introduces the inhabitants of his kingdom in a tuneful aria, and each appears as his or her name is called—Venus in a chariot of flowers, drawn by chorus girls; Diana, at the head of a bevy of beauties; Mercury, with his winged feet, and last but not least, Bacchus, bearing his platter of grapes and crowned with a garland of laurels. He acknowledges the introduction with an excellent bass solo.

The arrival of the tourists with Neptune is the signal for another outburst of song. Juno, the queen of the gods, who was very jealous of her fickle spouse, determines to win back his affections by making love to a mortal, and Ruben Smith is the one she selected. As the character of Ruben Smith was played by the diminutive John Slavin, and the role of Juno by Clarice Vance, who is in the vicinity of the six-foot mark, it furnishes an opportunity for the most amusing scenes in the play. It is overdone, however, and becomes quite tiresome.

May de Sousa and Grace King play the roles of the daughters and are very sweet and attractive. Miss de Sousa has an excellent voice and both girls are very graceful dancers. Anna Boyd plays the role of Amelia Parling, the mother, and a very silly role it was—too silly even for musical comedy. In the first act however, she gives a very clever imitation of a person afflicted with seasickness.

Gertrude Vanderbilt interprets three roles and all very successfully. In the first act she plays Rosalie, the French flower girl, and in the second she is Diana and Punk Robert Pitkin plays Billy Kent, the lover, and Leslie Gaze wrestles hard with the poet's role but doesn't make much of a success of it.

The chorus is very large and exceptionally pretty, and the costumes brilliant.

On the whole it is a very entertaining musical show, and as it is scheduled to run during the entire summer it will undoubtedly become popular before long.

Grace La Rue, who has chiefly appeared in vaudeville and in minor parts in Broadway casts, made her first appearance as a star in "Molly May," the new musical comedy which recently opened at the Hackett theater. Whatever criticism can be made of Miss La Rue, she cannot be called lazy. When she is not singing, she is dancing, and when she is not dancing she is posing. At other times she busies herself getting in and out of the "latest things" in gowns. In fact so often did she change that it reminded one more of a fashion exhibition than a musical comedy.

But I have been calling "Molly May" a musical comedy. It is not a musical comedy, but an "original comic operatice," as least it is advertised as such. What the author means by an 'original comic opera" is hard to say. If they mean musical show containing mostly music some good, some bad, but all very loud a very faint suspicion of a plot, and a nauseous libretto, then they have indeed produced an "original comic opera," although it isn't original with them, but, on the contrary, it is a very ordinary and common occurrence along Broadway.

Messrs. Julian Edwards and Walter Browne are responsible for the lyrics and libretto, respectively. Edwards has provided plenty of music, and out of the twenty odd songs, there are two or three very catchy ones, including "Clasp Hands," "My Turkish Maid" and "The Butterfly and the Rose." But Mr. Browne couldn't have done worse had he tried. Some of the characters tried their best to [illegible] with such a impossible libretto [illegible] were a failure. By close attention to the program and considerable reflection, one could gather that "Molly May" was an artists's model—in fact the queen of her set. At the models' ball she meets a gay young spark by the name of Jack Willoughby, and by accident also encounters his father-in-law. The humorous embarrassments follow.

As a star Miss LaRue will not create any brilliant light in the theatrical firmament. She hasn't a bad voice, but her dancing cannot be considered graceful as it is of the acrobatic variety. In talking, she gives an unpleasant Pittsburg roll to her r's that should be elliminated, if possible.

The chorus and costumes, however, were very pleasing to the eye, and in this respect the piece lacked nothing.

Supporting Miss LaRue were James E. Sullivan and Sydney Grant. They both did very well, and Grant, who is another vaudeville recruit, sang and danced well enough to serve the purpose.

"The Lady From Lobster Square" is no lady. This is the idea that the new farce at Weber's theater intends to convey, but the audience only gets a slight suspicion of it, despite the efforts of the cast. As it is "adapted from the French of George Foydeau," it is supposed to be very "spicy," but whatever "spice" is contained in the original form, it certainly lost during the period of transition.

The play is in three acts and deals with the troubles of Tom Runyon. Runyon is a young man, who has been "one of the boys" and is about to marry and settle down. One of his old-time favorites, Lucette Gautier, however, refuses to let him alone. As the date for his marriage is approaching he goes to her apartment and tells her he will have her no more. This ended the first act.

In the second act, Lucette, who is ignorant of her lover's coming marriage, is engaged to sing at the wedding. When she discovers his intentions she brings him to her room where she drops something down his back in a playful mood. In order to ease himself, he goes behind a screen and removes his clothes. Just then she opens the door and a number of wedding guests appear on the scene. This results in a postponement of the marriage, but the next day, he manages to get rid of her by marrying her off to a South American general. In the last there is an amusing scene where he is locked out of his apartment clad in his pajamas, while the guests are assembling for the wedding upstairs.

Fritz Williams played the role of Tom Runyon, and aside from a slight nervousness, acted his part very well. Georgia Caine was "The Lady From Lobster Square," and Lucy Weston played the part of Vivianna. She sang several ditties of the musical hall variety, while William Pruette as the general, sang a basso solo.

Miss Ray Beveridge made one of the big hits of the evening in the role of the French dressmaker. As she has resided in Paris for several years, she had an excellent accent.

James K. Hackett is giving a notable revival of "Monsieur Beaucaire," at the West End theater. This is the role that Richard Mansfield made famous, and, although it is Hackett's first attempt, his manner of handling it does not detract from any impressions that may have been gathered on seeing Mansfield's superb interpretation.

Plays and Players

Daniel Frohman evidently intends to make a specialty of male stars. Charles Cherry was the first plum which he picked from the dramatic basket. Mr. Cherry will appear at the Lyceum, New York, this month under Mr. Frohman's direction in a new play by Edward Peple, called "The Spitfire," in which Mr. Cherry will have a character somewhat on the line of his role in Clyde Fitch's "Girls," in which he made his greatest success.

"I think I have discovered something new to the way of paradoxes," said William Collier. "In an eastern city is a drinking fountain whereon is carved a quotations from the Bible containing this line: 'And whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely.' Above this hung a placard bearing the inscription, 'Please do not waste the water.'"

Forbes-Robertson ended his season at Maxine Elliott's theater in The Passing of the Third Floor Back April 9. He was the guest of honor at a supper at the Lotos club Saturday evening after the performance.

HABIT AMONG ANIMALS

The horse, as the most stupid of all the dumb creatures man has made his friends, has been painstakingly studied by E. T. Brewster. He is so stupid that he can be taught anything—that is, any habit—and having no mind of his own can be relied on to do exactly as he is told. All the authentic tricks whatever the circus, are worked in this way

The horse is taught by endless repetitions some mechanical habit. A given signal, and he begins to paw the floor. Another signal, and he stops. Press the proper button, and he takes a sponge and rubs it over a certain spot on a blackboard or picks up a card lying in a certain position. The meaning of the act exists for the spectator only. The pawings count the answer to a problem in addition; the card bears the reply to a question; but the horse does not know it.

He merely follows a blind habit, just as he will stop when you say "whoa!" though you interpolate tht word into your recitation of the Declaration of Independence. The reason the horse is so available for this particular deception and so generally useful to mankind is that he possesses just the right degree of stupidity. If he were stupider he would not be plastic enough to acquire convenient habits. If he were clever he would acquire too many habits and lead too much his own life, like that particularly clever animal, the cat.

The two thousand tests to which James P. Porter of Indiana university subjected two English sparrows serve as the types of all experiments with animals counting. They proved beyond question that the sparrows could not count. After a bird had been given its food one hundred times in succession from dish No. 5, in the next 20 trials it went only nine times to the proper place. Moreover, after the bird became pretty certain of the situation of the desired dish when he came to it on the wing, walking up to it threw him off again, while if he started his flight from a point on one side of his usual perch he was likely to hit correspondingly to one side of his objective point.

The sparrows guessed numbers better than most creatures who have been tested. They could not count certainly even two. Neither instinct nor reason is the key to the animal mind, but habit. The animal forms habits precisely as we do, and like ourselves stores up as habits many common experiences of life. The difference is that what for us is a mere side line is almost the entire stock in trade of the beast. We are all of us more and beasts alike, bundles of habits but the man has more other things wrapped up in his package.

The Greater the Truth the Greater the Libel

Proving That Our Friends Are Often Our Enemies

By Kennett Harris.

"Egbert Carter's brung suit agin Dave Finney," announced Alonzo Dunwoody, between chuckles of glee. "I lay you-all can't guess what fur. Wel, sir, it's ercount of Dave callin' him a liar an' a swindler at the bo'd meetin'. He says he'll make Dave prove it."

"I reckon Dave won't have no trouble provin' it," commented the storekeeper. "Ever'body knows what Egbert is. Why didn't he slap Dave's face if he wanted to do anythin'?"

"He'd have to get a chair to stand on fust, an' by that time Dave would prob-bly move away," explained Eben Baxter. "Seems like to me that Egbert is foolish gettin' worked up over a little thing like that, though."

"It wasn't bein' called them names made him mad," said Washington Hancock. "He's kind o' proud of his lyin' an' swindlin'. The p'int is that Dave hain't no friend of his. That makes all the difference in the world. Some claims the greater the truth, the greater the libel, but that ain't so most gin-rally. If I was to call Rufe a robber, he wouldn't take no offense ercount of it bein' true, but if somebody he wasn't fond of said it, he'd consider hisself insulted an' lay low for a chance to skin him good."

"Some o' thesyer times you'll go a little too fur, Wash," said the storekeeper, shaking his head threateningly.

What You'll Stand from a Friend.

"That's what Almiron Smith said when Newt Tubbs throwed a glass of liker in his face an' then knocked him down an' jumped on him," retorted Hancock.

"But it's fnnny what a feller will take from a friend," he went on. "Did you ever hear about P. J. Sloanes, up to Libertyburg, an' his friend Hank Paddon? Well, that showed. P. J. owed a right smart to Hank, because if Hank hadn't tole him what a poor stick he was he might have got to thinkin' well of himself an' got conceity an' swelled up.

"They used to go to school together, an' even then Hank uster pick on P. J. an' tell him about his shortcomings, includin' his freckles an' his red hair an' his drunken father. 'I know you hain't to blame for them last things,' P. J. he'd say, 'but you've got 'em, jest the same, an' you cain't get around it. I'm sayin' this for your own good an' 'cause you an' me is friends; but there's folks that will hold it up against you, an' I cain't really blame 'em.'

"'Your pants is all wore through behind, P. J.,' he'd say. 'Fust thing you know there'll be a hole in 'em. I thought you'd like to know; that's why I mentioned it. You can't turn a cartwheel; your feet's too big an' you're too blame awkward. Good enough for you! You ought to have better sensee than to try to scrap with Sam. Pity he didn't black both eyes, stid o' the one. Any fool might have known that that limb was rotten. I reckon you'll b'lieve me another time.'

P. J. Decides to Go to the City.

"When they got older, Hank still kep' on bein' a friend to P. J. He tole him that his haid was too thick for him to make a success at anythin' but drivin' a dray or blowin' the bellers for a blacksmith, an' when P. J. talked about goin' to the city he tried to get him to see that the city folks 'ud eat him up.

"'Fust place, you hain't smart enough, P. J.' he says. 'You don't never lie to anybody but what they find it out. You're ornery enough for a fust-class liar, but you hain't got the ermagination. Another thing, you jest look like a hayseed an' you hain't got maners ner edgercation. I wouldn't tell you that,' he says, 'if you wasn't a friend of mine.'

"'I erpreciate your kindness, Hank,' says P. J.

"'You're welcome,' says Hank. 'If you on'y spoke grammatical, it ud be somethin',' he says, 'but you talk worser'n Ole Sap. No, siree, if a feller goes to the city to work, he's got to have glimmerin's of sense an' fingers 'at ain't all thumbs. He's got to be slick an' smooth an' move around 'thout a sharp stick behind him. What d'you 'spose a red-haided, bandy-laigged gorilla like you 'ud do in the city? No, P. J., you stay where the folks is used to your face. Take a friend's advice, P. J.'

He Soon Branched Out.

"But P. J. didn't. He packed his cyarpet sack one day, an' lit out for the city. First off, he got a job drivin' a dray. The nex' thing, he saved his money an' bought a dray for himself. Inside of five years a feller come back with the news that P. J. had branched out into the bus an' baggage transfer line in partners with another feller an' was makin' money hand over fist.

"'A fool for luck,' says Hank, when he heard about it.

"'He ain't got the repyertation of bein' a fool,' says the feller 'at brung the news.

"'The folks there don't know him like I do,' says Hank. 'Him an' me has been intmit friends for nigh on to twenty years, an' I say he ain't got sense to pound sand. If he's got on, it's luck done it, not judgment. What's more, P. J. is crooked,' says he, 'I ain't saying' it to backbite him,' he says. 'I'm jest statin' fac's. He's a friend o' mine, an' if I could say anythin' good o' him, I'd be right glad to say ot.'

"That got back to P. J. and it tickled him most to death. 'Hank cert'nly is a good friend o' mine,' he says. 'I've been a-missin' his friendly talks for a right smart of a while, an' this seems like ole times.'

The Flunkey Brings in a Note.

"Well, he bought his partner out soon after that an' got hold of a horse car line, an' thee fust thing you know he was consolidatin' with other lines until the on'y way a feller could keep from puttin' moneye into P. J.'s picket was to walk to wherever he wanted to go an' trundle his trunk in a wheelbarrer.

"One day he was a-settin' in his office with its solid silver cuspidors an' di'mond-hilted inkstands when the flunkey in silk stockin's crawled in on his han's an' knees, holdin' a note in mouth. P. J. took the note an' opened it an' it read suthin' like this:

"'Friend P. J.:

"'I'm right here in this office of yours, an' I'd like right well to see you an' tell you how proud all your old friends is of you for the way you've clum up. You cert'nly deserve to git to the front if hustle an' honesty an' enterprise an' gentlemanly beheavior an' brains count for anythin'. I tole 'em that when you knowed who it was you'd let me in and hope you'll do so. Your faithful an' admirin' friend,

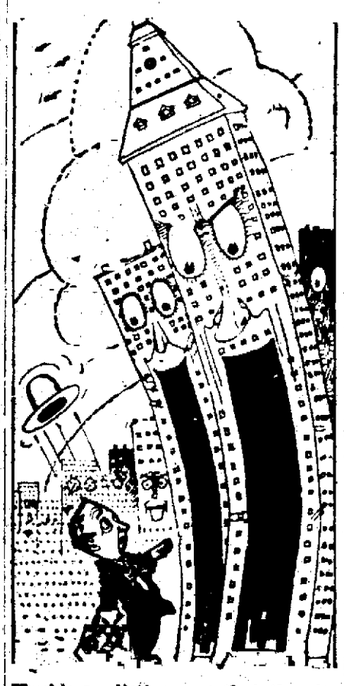

'HANK.'

"'Is he in the next room?' P. J. asts the flunkey.

"'Yes, your lordship,' says the flunkey.

"'Then tell him I say he's a bare-face impostor, an' kick him down the stairs, says P. J. 'Kick him hard, too.'

"An' that's what they done, but when they come back an' tole P. J. what the party had said about him when he got to the bottom of the stairs, P. J. says, 'Way, dogone my cats, if it wasn't my dear old friend, Hank, after all!'"

Hank's prediction was that the city would eat his friend up.

HOLDS TITLE OF WORLD'S CHAMPION TYPIST

MISS ROSE FRITZ.

Six years ago, when 15 years old, Miss Fritz began the study of stenography and typewriting. In 13 weeks she was writing without mistakes or hesitation 120 words a minute in shorthand and 60 words a minute on the typewriter.

For the last three years Miss Fritz has held the international championship, her last record being 6,135 words in one hour, the net amount after five words had been deducted for each error.

THE CHOIR INVISIBLE.

"The world will live for ages to come," writes Rev. W. L. Watkinson, "and you never put into it a sweet thought or a kind word or a pure impulse or a genuine sacrifice, but it will live in the life of the race, and bloom and multiply successive harvests. 'Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. Their works do follow them.' That means that their works keep on following them. Age after age they are astonished in the heavenly world by fresh sheaves placed in their bosoms, the seeds of which were sown in this narrow, poor, fugitive human life."

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies OF KNOWN COMPOSITION. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, overworked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indian for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the use of this and a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Woman's Club of Colorado Springs.

Judge J E Little was the speaker Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the social science department of the Woman's club of Colorado Springs, his subject being "The Juvenile Court; Its Works; Its Needs." The club members are all greatly interested in the work carried forward by Judge Little and gave the closest attention.

The work of the juvenile court was explained and it was shown that its province was to save the child by looking after its welfare. He was not dealt with as a criminal but as one misdirected and in need of assistance. The probation system has proven effectual after both parents and teachers have failed to control children, and the knowledge that a good report must be recorded for the delinquent must go to the industrial school until 21, has caused remarkable reformations.

The need of a [illegible] detention home in charge of a competent man and woman where children can be put temporarily until placed where they will be properly cared for was emphasized and at the close of Judge Little's talk, the motion was carried that the social science department request the board of directors of the club to recommend that a committee be appointed to draw up resolutions petitioning that a detention home be established in this county at an early date. Thanks were extended to Judge Little for his address and for his excellent work in the juvenile court by a rising vote.

Yesterday afternoon at the general meeting of the club, the committee upon the revision of the bylaws made their report and the discussion and adoption occupied it the afternoon.

The social science study class met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. William V Shepard and the current topics of ship subsidy, forest conservation, white slave traffic, etc., were animatedly discussed.

CAKE MAKER TO KINGS.

From Human Life.

Almost daily for the last 10 years there has gone out from the pretty little home of Mrs. Elizabeth Lyle Wilson in Nashville, Tenn., a package bearing the address of possibly a president of the United States or a cabinet minister, the unpronounceable name of some Russian princess, or maybe it was England to which the package was bound—direct to the court of St. James, or again to the court of Vienna, or to some faraway spot in South America or Australia. Removing the neat wrappings of one of these mysterious packages, a light wooden box, or—if going across the water—a sealed tin one, is found, inside of which are layers of white tissue paper, then, beneath a fold of paraffine paper, is found a cake only a cake, but truly the most wonderfully, deliciously beautiful cake in the whole world.

Without crossing her threshhold, without advertising, almost undesired, one might say, Mrs Wilson has had greatness thrust upon her. Nature endowed her with an artistic talent for creating beautiful things. Added to this is a natural taste for cooking which, as a consequence, has brought presidents, kings, millionaires and celebrities of all sorts, from everywhere, to be her patrons. Last Christmas eleven of these cakes were sent to Washington, all iced in holly with gay red berries, or wreathed in mistletoe made of delicious frosting two inches thick, with rich black fruitcake beneath.

Mrs. Wilson has gone to nature to find her models for decorations, not to cooking schools. With little tubes of stiff white paper she creates from great bowls of deliciously flavored icings colored from fruit or vegetable juices, the most wonderful flowers, perfect in coloring and shape. Great bunches of sweet peas, delicately tinted, a spray of pale green leaves, or an orchid, or rich-looking grapes in clusters. It is in her individual cakes, though, that her great artistic work lies. These will consist of a single La France rose or a snowball, a chrysanthemum or a bunch of jonquils set in leaves, exquisitely formed.

Mrs. Wilson was the first woman in America to bring to perfection this form of art, and while also a devoted wife and mother and home-maker, this energetic little woman has found time to teach to many dependent young girls and widows her wonderful secret of cake-making.

She has offers continually—which are refused—from the foremost caterers of the world. She has, on a few occasions, gone to Chicago or New York, when the offer was quite too tempting to be turned down, to serve cakes and bonbons and lunch favors all to match, which amazed the guests of some multi-millionairess' luncheon table.

Essentially a woman's work, without the severing of home ties, Mrs. Wilson has gained a reputation through the originality of her work, and its great artistic beauty, which has spread into the furthermost corners of the globe.

The plucky woman's success is an inspiration to every other woman who is obliged to face the world as a breadwinner.

HAIR REMOVERS ARE DANGEROUS

Physicians Say: "Don't Use Poisonous Depilatories."

The extravagant claims recently made by unscrupulous manufacturers of hair removers in sensational advertisements unquestionably justify physicians in cautioning the public against the use of this class of depilatories. How many people have been enticed into using these dangerous preparations with consequent injury to themselves cannot be estimated, but only guessed at.

The preparations above referred to are invariably in the form of creamy pastes, which are to be spread upon the skin to remain until they are dry. These contain sulphide of barium, an insoluble chemical which cannot be dissolved, therefore can not be absorbed by the skin. The very fact that you are told to leave these pasty compounds on the skin until they dry and cake and then lift off with a knife is proof positive that they are not absorbed. If they are, why do they still remain on the skin? The most they can possibly do is to remove the surface hair, which in consequence will reappear stronger and thicker after each removal.

There is only one logical and scientific way to remove hair, and that is by means of a liquid containing soluble ingredients which can be absorbed by the skin. De Miracle, known all the world over as the only real superfluous hair remover, is just such a preparation. It is easily and quickly absorbed, and after you have used it you will note there is nothing left on the skin. It leaves the skin free from irritation, and, what is more to the point, it is absolutely nonpoisonous, therefore it will not produce eczema or blood poisoning. Remember no matter what claims are made to the contrary, no poisonous, pasty compound or other worthless concoction can reach the hair root, and we can prove it.

Beware of the fake free advertisers and others. Don't be deceived by them. Better take a doctor's advice. De Miracle is sold by the Robinson Drug Co. We will send you a 62-page booklet containing full information concerning this remarkable treatment, as well as testimonials of prominent physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals, and the principal magazines. You should read this booklet before you try anything. Write the De Miracle Chemical Co., Dept. 189, 1905 Park Ave., New York, simply saying you want this booklet, and it will be mailed, sealed, at once.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW.

From the New York Evening Sun.

When we judge acquaintances, weighing their personality, manner and mind, we never throw into the balance our effect upon them, which ridiculously is the thing counting most. We act as magnets, drawing a certain group of their facets to the front, and when we have done this we cast a sternly appraising eye on the facets facing us and draw conclusions on the surmise that the side we see is all there is of a many-sided form. It is delightfully simple for the person judging, but most trying for the person judged. They had no intention of turning those facets, they felt them whirling to the fore and were furious. The facets on the sou' sou' by east corner of them are much more suited to the person present, but try as they would to present them, something in the person brought forward a northwest corner that no one else had ever discovered.

It is most vexatious to be a rattling woman of the world with one's Greenfield aunts, and when a real woman of the world turns up to maddeningly feel one's self becoming a nice young girl, or, worse still, a stern, silent Puritan with ideas, or perhaps a suburbanite with a chest protector under one's coat, which slightly, redly protrudes. In the privacy of your own room you have been a quiet Mona Lisa, smiling gently at a transitory world. An uncle calls and you stumble over your train and scatter hairpins nervously. He has just left and the sad leniency toward gauche mankind has once more returned to you when a trio enter who reduce you to a clown, and to your own horror and disgust you find yourself giving an imitation of an encounter between a policeman and a drayman. It is to weep! You will go to your grave leaving every one with a completely erroneous idea of your character. The people who see you as a hearty, bluff worker should catch a glimpse of you with the person who reduces you to an irrelevant kitten. You would give anything if it could happen. The desire of your life is to be witty before the person who renders you into one prolonged stutter, and if you could once be cold and haughty toward those silly people who pull you off your perch you would feel that never could your life be considered a failure.

There seems to be just one way of nullifying the effects of other people on one, but it is possible that it has attendant complications which would make it impracticable. Write a letter to one person and send it to another. There appears to be something in the idea, doesn't there? It would be a revelation for a relative to get a letter intended for an intimate, and to send the letters written to men to one's women friends and vice versa—it really would have surprising results. Quite a new idea of one would gradually be circulated. One becomes hilarious at the thought of the possible complications. It would make the morning mail a convulsing affair. It might make the evening trains for the far west exceedingly full.

THE SUM OF LIVING.

If you have a friend worth loving,
Love. Yes, and let him know
That you love him, ere life's evening
Tinge his brow with sunset glow.

Why should good words ne'er be said
Of a friend—till he is dead?
If you hear a song that thrills you,
Sung by any child of song,

Praise it. Do not let the singer
Wait deserved praises long.
Why should one who thrills your heart
Lack the joy you may impart?

If you hear a prayer that moves you
By its humble, pleading tone,
Join it. Do not let the seeker
Bow before his God alone.

Why should not your brother share
The strength of "two or three" in prayer?
If you see the hot tears falling
From a brother's weeping eyes,
Share them; and by kindly sharing
Own your kinship with the skies.

Why should anyone be glad
When a brother's heart is sad?
If a silvery laugh goes rippling
Through the sunshine on his face,

Share it. 'Tis the wise man's saying—
For both grief and joy a place,
There's health and goodness in the mirth
In which all honest laugh has birth.
If your work is made more easy
By a friendly, helping hand,
Say so. Speak out brave and truly,
Ere the darkness veil the land.
Should a brother workman dear
Falter for a word of cheer?
Scatter thus your seeds of kindness,
All enriching as you go—
Leave them. Trust the Harvest Giver,
He will make each seed to grow.
So, until its happy end,
Your life shall never lack a friend.

VALUABLE RECORDS.

From an Exchange.

The proud parents of two little New York boys and their 4-year-old sister are anxious that the children should have means of knowing when they have grown up how smart they were in their nursery days, and with this in view the children have sung, "spoke pieces" and held conversations before a talking machine. The records have been placed where they will not be injured, and the parents think that some day the children will value them highly. With the records there are descriptions of the children as they appeared to the father and a photograph of each.

Only old New Yorkers know that there used to be an island 300 feet off the Battery, and that it was fortified and known as Fort Clinton. The island was connected with the mainland by a drawbridge.

DECEMBER AND MAY.

From the New York Telegraph.

What does it matter how old a man is or what the age of a woman is if they wish to marry? What have years to do with love and that felicity that comes from the tying of the nuptial knot? Dr. Johnson's wife was more than 20 years his senior, and Shakespeare's spouse was old enough to be his mother. They were happy, and why should not those who follow their example in these days also find connubial joys?

It is getting to be the fashion nowadays, this mating of December and May. Recently a wealthy woman of Hartford made plans for marrying a school boy at New Haven. She was about 70 and he was about 20, and her children and grandchildren, when they heard about it, went to the courts and said she was crazy. But the judges knew otherwise, and set her free and let her continue mistress of her own fortune.

Then there was a lady of a noted American family who lived in her mansion on the Hudson. For 68 years she had lived alone, and then she married her hostler, aged 24. What of that? Shall a woman who has lived nearly three score years and ten and still is an old maid continue so until her death?

Mme. Francoise Mantaiselo, 57 years old, and Arthur Springer, 23 years old, have taken out a license to marry in this city. Speaking for the lady and himself, Master Springer makes this statement: "It is no one's business except ours if we marry." The boy is right; he can marry his step-grandmother if he wishes, and not even the law can say him nay.

DISCIPLINING THE PUBLIC.

An incident which is much talked about in London is thus described in the Telegraph of that city:

"It cannot often have happened that a conductor has been obliged to call a halt in the performance of a work on account of loud talking indulged in by members of the audience. But Bulow, unless we are in error, did so on one occasion, and another occurred as recently as last Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. Joseph Holbrooke stopped the orchestra at His Majesty's theater during the overture to his "Pierrot and Pierrette" and had to appeal to certain people described in one account as 'ladies and gentlemen'—to give his work a fair hearing. One of the 'ladies' retorted. 'You get on with your music,' and eventually, it appears, the interruption ceased. In our opinion, Mr. Holbrooke's rebuke was perfectly justified, and, as a matter of fact, there was a similar flow of conversation during the playing of his prelude delicately scored for muted strings at the first performance of the opera. People who can afford to pay for stalls in a theater ought not to require a lesson in manners, while those who receive tickets from the management may at least consider themselves under an obligation to behave decently. Conduct of the kind described, offensive alike to performers and to people sitting in the neighborhood of the chatterers, has become all too common in London theaters and concert-rooms, and it is high time that ill-mannered persons of this class should be made to understand that such behavior is frankly intolerable."

There was a time when loud talking at the opera in New York was no uncommon thing, even while there was singing on the stage. Now such a disturbance is of rare occurrence, but there are still a number of people who talk when the singing ceases, while the orchestra still plays. Such persons obviously are unable to understand anything of an opera except the mere singing. If they knew how their ill-timed talking exposes them as musical illiterates and ignoramuses, they would probably shut up. The most amazing thing about such persons is that they do not seem to be aware that others near them are anxious to hear the orchestral parts of an opera also. Or are these disturbers simply ill-mannered and therefore indifferent to the rights of others? Sometimes they refuse to stop, even when gently hissed. In such cases, the thing to do is to turn around, look them straight in the face, and hiss as loud as you can, so that everybody looks at them. It works like magic.

One time when Theodore Thomas was conducting an opera in the Brooklyn academy of music a party in a box talked loudly and persistently. He sent a man to beg them politely to desist. They replied insolently that they had paid for their box and could do in it what they pleased. When Mr. Thomas got this message and the talking continued, he stopped the music, and pointing at the box, said to the audience that the opera would continue as soon as the talking in it ceased, and not before. The audience applauded him demonstratively for his speech and the disturbers left the house hastily.

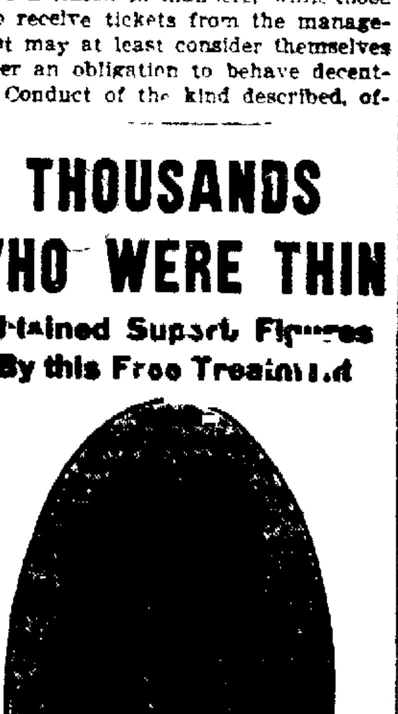

It has remained for an Italian, Arturo Toscanini, to take the last step in the disciplining of the public and teaching it to respect the rights of others. He has such great admiration for Wagner's music that if he could have his way entirely he would not admit anyone to the opera house except before the overture begins and during intermissions. Such a radical reform is, of course, impossible, but he succeeded in excluding late comers while he was conducting the "Tristan" Vorspiel.

Toscanini fought for such reforms in Milan and made many enemies, but finally he carried his points. Among other things he had the house darkened during the performance of the Wagner operas, following the German custom.

Health and Beauty Queries

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

C. F. D.: You say you do not like to follow the new styles in hairdressing because your hair is streaked with different shades of color. These streaks are undoubtedly due to shampooing with soap and water. I recommend canthrox in preference to any other shampoo. It makes a rich and plentiful lather that thoroughly cleans the scalp, removes dandruff, relieves itching and irritation and leaves the hair soft, bright and fluffy. This inexpensive and quick-drying home shampoo is prepared by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a teacupful of hot water. Pour on the head a little at a time, using it as you would any other shampoo.

Olivette: If you are afflicted with pimples, are thin and sallow, and suffer continuously from a "tired out" feeling, you need a good system tonic that will cleanse your blood, make your liver more active and build you up and strengthen you. Try this: Dissolve half teacupful of sugar and one ounce of kardene in half pint of alcohol and add enough boiling water to make a full quart of tonic. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time. You can get the kardene and alcohol at any drug store. This old-fashioned home remedy restores lost appetite and aids digestion. Take it and you soon will be stronger and free from pimples and blotches.

Alice: If the joking of your sweetheart embarrasses you, stop using face powder. The next time you go to the drug store get four ounces of spurmax, dissolve it in half pint of hot water and add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This makes a fine complexion beautifier that will rid you of that "shiny," greasy look and give your skin a clear, fresh and youthful appearance. It will not show or rub off like powder—and lasts much longer. Apply it also to your neck and forearms, rubbing gently until dry. It is fine to use when wearing the short sleeves and low necks that again will be the fashion this summer.

Rachel: When your hair comes out so freely while combing it, you should take immediate steps to restore your scalp and hair to healthy condition. Dandruff and falling hair are caused by germs which can be destroyed by the use of a good quinine hair tonic made as follows: Get from your druggist one ounce of quinzoin, dissolve it in half pint of alcohol and add half pint of cold water. Rub this tonic into the scalp gently every night for the first week. Then use it twice a week, brushing the hair thoroughly each time. If anything will give you a new growth of hair quinzoin will. The treatment is invigorating and refreshing and it keeps the hair soft and glossy, so that it is easily managed and can be put up in any style you wish.

Miss Nobody: Yes, you weigh about ten pounds more than a person of your height should. Try this to reduce your weight: Get from your druggist four ounces of parnotis and dissolve it in a pint of hot water. Take a teaspoonful of this harmless flesh reducer before each meal. You will feel better when you are rid of that superfluous flesh.

L. M.: You can help your "dead" and dull eyes, stop inflammation and do away with redness if you use an eye tonic made by dissolving one ounce of crystos in a pint of water. Drop one or two drops in each eye whenever they are tired or feel weak. It will not smart or burn. Its regular use will make your eyes bright and sparkling. Crystos is also recommended for granulated eyelids. It can be purchased at any first-class drug store.

Anxious: My dear girl, you exaggerate the unsightliness of the blackheads you say you are afflicted with. They will disappear if you use faithfully a cream jelly made as follows: Get from your druggist one ounce of almozoin, put it in half pint of cold water and add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. After stirring briskly, allow to stand one or two hours. Massage your face with this almozoin cream and it will thoroughly cleanse the pores. Dust and grime that soap and water never touch will roll out and off the skin. This treatment tends to make large pores small and prevents the return of blackheads. It clears the skin and keeps it smooth, soft and pliable. You can use almozoin as a face and massage cream just as freely as you wish, for it contains no oils or fats that will cause a growth of superfluous hair.

SIMPLY HAD TO

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"And this," said the young man who was showing his country relative through the museum of art, "is a replica of the Venus de Milo."

"Gosh!" said his Uncle Amasa, "she was a good looker, all right. Wa'n't never married, was she?"

"No. I don't believe she ever was."

"I s'pose, bein armless and not havin' a husband to hook up her clo's, she simply had to dress that way, no matter whether she liked it or not."

KEEP IT QUIET

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Mamma—"Did you tell God how very naughty you were?"

Mary—"No, mamma. I thought it hadn't better get out of the family."

THE SNOWFALL.

The snow had begun in the gloaming,
And busily all the night
Had been heaping field and highway
With a silence deep and white.

Every pine and fir and hemlock
Wore ermine too dear for an earl,
And the poorest twig on the elm tree
Was ridged inch-deep with pearl.

From sheds new-roofed with Carrara
Came the Chanticleer's muffled crow,
The stiff rails were softened to swan's-down
And still fluttered down the snow.

I stood and watched by the window
The noiseless work of the sky,
And the sudden flurries of snow-birds,
Like brown leaves whirling by.

I thought of a mound in sweet Auburn,
Where a little headstone stood;
How the flakes were flooding it gently,
As did robins the Babes in the Wood.

Up spoke our Little Mabel,
Saying, "Father, who makes it snow?"
And I told of the good All-Father
Who cares for us here below.

Again I looked at the snowfall
[illegible] thought of the leaden sky
That arched o'er our first great sorrow,
[illegible] high.

I remembered the gradual patience
That fell from that cloud like snow,
Flake by flake, healing and hiding
The scar of our deep-plunged woe.

And again to the child I whispered,
"The snow that husheth all,
Darling, the merciful Father
Alone can make it fall!"

Then with eyes that saw not, I kissed her;
And she kissing back, could not know
That my kiss was given to her sister,
Folded close under deepening snow.

THE USEFUL OVER-ALL COAT.

A long loose-fitting coat is almost indispensible for spring on account of the popularity of the one-piece gowns. The newest model features the so-called raglin sleeve, which is cut in two pieces, extending clear to the neck, where they taper to a point. For the motorist this is just the garment for long jaunts, while for general usefulness it is not without its appeal to the majority of women. The material should be chosen with a view to its intended use, any of the various wool or silk mixtures, [illegible] broadcloth to pongee, being adaptable.
